GOVERNOR CALLS OUT TROOPS TO PREVENT MEETING OF SOLONS

Oklahoma Executive Emulates Former Governor—
Would Check Attempt To Impeach Him—
House Prepares Charges

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 12.—Following the precedent established by Gov. J. C. (Jack) Walton, in 1923, Gov. Henry S. Johnston of Oklahoma, today ordered out state troops to prevent a meeting of the Oklahoma legislature which was to convene at 10 o'clock this morning in self-convened session to vote impeachment charges.

The criminal court of appeals, however, ruled the house members had the power to meet and consider impeachment charges. The charges have been carefully guarded.

Brig. Gen. Charles McPherrren was in charge of the troops. He was ordered to use as many soldiers as necessary to prevent the legislature from assembling.

CREW MISSING FROM LAKE VESSEL FOUND FROZEN OFF ISLAND

Seek Twenty Two Men—
Crews Of Two Others Saved

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., Dec. 12.—With the crews of the wrecked steamers Altadoc and Agawa safe ashore, search was continued today for twenty-two other men comprising the crew of the Matthews Steamship company's steamer Lampton, encased in ice and hard ground off Parisienne Island in Lake Superior.

Tugs which reached the ship found her wheel and rudder swept away, the crew and life boats gone, the fires out, her hull buckled amidships and filled with water. Foot-prints frozen in the ice on her deck indicated the crew had left since the storm.

Although the tugs circled the island searching for the twenty-two men comprising the crew, no trace of them was found. If they made shore on the Canadian mainland they are in a trackless wilderness. If they reached the American shore eleven miles away some word should have been received from them before now.

The twenty-two members of the crew of the Agawa told vivid stories of hardships. Waves broke over the stranded steamer, and bitter zero winds swept through the battered cabins. The men had nothing to eat and smoked tobacco to keep down the pangs of hunger.

The ship is a total loss with 900,000 bushels of grain in her hold.

Twenty-one men rescued from the Canadian steamer Altadoc were leaving today for their homes. When rescued they were huddled in the forward cabin.

Frank McKee, of Toronto, the ship's wireless operator was sealed in his wireless room by a wall of ice. Rescuers chopped their way to him.

Concern is still felt for three other ships missing on the lakes three days. They are the Saskatoon, King and Lake Chelan.

An unconfirmed report said a ship was aground on Pancake Shoals. Seamen said it was possible either the King or Lake Chelan might be in this position.

The steamer Maritan is still aground on Hare Island, but its crew is in no danger.

The steamer Eades was in a precarious condition after striking a rock in West Beech Cut of St. Mary's River. She was reported leaking badly. Tugs rushed to her.

"BIG NAVY" BATTLE REACHES SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The "big navy" fight was transferred to the senate today with administration leaders hopeful of getting action of the $206,000,000 first deficiency appropriation bill before nightfall.

The measure carried a $940,000 appropriation for elevating guns on the battleships Oklahoma and Nevada to meet the range of British and Japanese warships.

The gun elevation amendment was sponsored by Rep. Butler (R) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the naval affairs committee. He secured its adoption when he asserted that Secretary of State Kellogg had ruled the elevation would not constitute a violation of the spirit of the Washington disarmament conference.

WIFE CONFESSES KILLING HUSBAND AND THEN GOING TO CARD PARTY

Artist sketches scenes depicted in confession, Perry, O., following a quarrel over going to a card game, during which both came to blows, the wife says. When the husband had been killed with a hammer blow, the wife calmly went to the card game in nearby Cleveland. The following morning she went Christmas shopping with her mother—then was arrested. The sheriff then told of a confession calmly given.

LOWDEN HELPS FARM BILL BY ENDORSING EQUALIZATION FEE

Battle For McNary-Haugen Measure Given Impetus

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The fight to pass the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill despite an almost certain veto by President Coolidge gained new impetus as a result of emphatic endorsement of the bill by ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois.

Members of the farm bloc have indicated a willingness to compromise on almost every issue but the equalization fee. This, they say, must stay in the bill.

Lowden declared that no farm relief could be effective without this fee to make up losses incurred in marketing surplus abroad.

He declared that "restoration of the farming industry" is the biggest issue of the 1928 presidential campaign.

With a revised McNary-Haugen bill already introduced in the senate and a companion measure due to go into the house soon, preliminaries of the fight were well under way with the prospect of legislative action coming shortly after the holidays.

Lowden conferred here with many congressional leaders in the farm relief fight. He indicated that he would take no active part in the congressional squabble, beyond continued advocacy of farm relief in public addresses.

He also clarified his attitude toward the presidency. He stood upon his previous declaration that "no man ever ran away from the presidency," but said that a movement by his friends to gain the Republican presidential nomination for him had his sanction. He also indicated that he would not take himself out of the campaign, saying that he saw "no possibility of a change of my status in that direction."

PROTESTS ATTACK MADE ON AMERICAN

BUCHAREST, Dec. 12.—At the request of Mrs. Keller, W. S. Culbertson, American minister, has protested to the Rumanian Government against the attack on and wounding of Captain Keller, of Pennsylvania, in the Rumanian students' anti-semitic riots, it was learned today.

Captain Keller was badly beaten and stabbed during a riot in Grosswardein when he attempted to address the students from a balcony.

The British ambassador has also lodged a protest against the destruction of two British flags during the disorders.

The Rumanian Government announced an investigation was progressing.

BANK ROBBER GOES ON TRIAL MONDAY

BUCHYRUS, O., Dec. 12.—Trial of Harry Zillick, Toledo, for alleged complicity in the $175,000 Commercial Savings Bank robbery at Galion, last June 28, opened in Common Pleas Court here today.

Eight witnesses have been subpoenaed by the state and twenty-two by the defense. Five of the state's witnesses are expected to positively identify Zillick as one of the bandits who staged the sensational hold-up.

The prosecution will probably be conducted along the same lines as that of Wilbur Hand who has already been convicted. Selection of a jury from a panel of twenty-five names, was taken up immediately after court opened.

THIRTY TWO RHODES SCHOLARS PICKED

SWARTHMORE, Pa., Dec. 12.—The winners of the thirty-two coveted scholarships from the United States were made public here today by President Frank Aydelotte, of Swarthmore College, American secretary to the Rhodes trustees.

The students will enter Oxford University in October, 1928 with an stipend of 400 pounds a year for the three years.

The states represented with the name of the student and his university include the following:

Illinois: John L. McDonough, Chicago; University of Chicago.

Indiana: Harlan Logan, 139 West 11th St., N. Y.; Indiana University.

Kentucky: William S. Ward, Georgetown, Ky.; Georgetown College.

Michigan: Robert F. Baker, Cambridge, Mass.; Williams College.

Ohio: Bergen Evans, Fisher Hall, Oxford, Ohio; Miami University.

REED SLUSH FUND COMMITTEE MAY MAKE BALLOT RE-COUNT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The campaigns of Senators-Elect William S. Vare, of Penn., and Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, may also be authorized to stage a recount of all the ballots cast in the 1926 Pennsylvania senatorial election, it was reported today.

The recount, demanded as a part of the contest filed against Vare by the Democrat, William B. Wilson, was sent to the senate committee on privileges and elections last spring. Members of the regular committee however, were said to be opposed to handling any phase of the Vare contest so long as the Reed committee was holding a separate inquiry.

The Reed committee, aware that the senate had authorized both the same thing decided Saturday to confer with the standing committee before taking further action. Senator James A. Reed (D) of Mo., chairman, also announced he planned to get new authorization from the senate to "remove every possibility of doubt" as to his committee's power to act.

C. H. Winters, baggage master, was killed and engineer Charles Beltz and conductor John Kelly, were seriously injured.

The accident occurred as the train was making a left turn, the engine plunging into a high bank, according to word reaching here. The first car projected half its length out over the Youghiogheny river.

Several rails were twisted, ties were crushed and telegraph poles were knocked down, according to witnesses, from the impact of the derailed coaches. The coaches were of steel construction and it was this that saved the passengers from serious injury, it was said.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—America's rainy day account for 1927 is measured by a figure of eleven digits—$26,032,001,000.

That stupendous wealth, nearly three times the entire world's monetary gold supply, was piled in the banks of United States on June 30, Comptroller of the Currency J. W. McIntosh announced today.

Even at the three per cent interest rate of the savings banks it commands an annual $780,000,000 return.

Savings accounts probably were several billion dollars greater on December 1, just before the Christmas checks were mailed to depositors.

Billions, however, will vanish from the banks before Christmas in the annual spending spree to convince some of the population at least that there is a Santa Claus. With the first of the year savings will again start the annual climb to a new record, no doubt, if "times are good."

In national banks alone, where savings accounts held $5,875,000,000, the gain in a year was over $912,000,000. For all banks savings probably increased several billion dollars in the year, although no comparative figures were given.

Total deposits of all banks June 30 were $51,132,554,000, the greatest on record. Based on a population of 129,804,000 in continental United States, Alaska and the insular possessions, per capita deposits were $393.32, while every individual, under an equal distribution of cash, would have a savings account of $200.55.

ATTORNEY ESCAPES GUARDS AND JUMPS FROM TRAIN WINDOW

Urbana Man Cheats Law After Arrest In New York

CONNEAUT, O., Dec. 12.—While enroute from New York City to Urbana, Ohio, where he was wanted for an alleged attempt to poison his divorced wife and her family at Urbana, Harold Hawkins, 32, former Dayton, Ohio, attorney, escaped from Sheriff P. V. Jones of Champaign County, O., and Chief of Police P. K. Powers, of Urbana, leaped from the train, said to have been traveling fifty miles an hour, and was killed early Sunday.

Hawkins' head was crushed in and his right leg was broken after his body rolled approximately 800 feet. A verdict of suicide was rendered by Coroner Dan Hawley, of Erie, Pa.

Hawkins left Urbana following discovery of poison in a package of coffee used in the poisoning of his father-in-law, John Hawkins, in 1926. Only a few days before his arrest he was in New York City, where he was arrested in connection with the poisoning of his father-in-law.

Today, accompanied by the sheriff and chief of police, he was taken to Erie, Pa., where he was held in the Erie County Jail.

NEWTON LEDBETTER DIES FROM INJURY RECEIVED IN FALL

Newton Ledbetter, 76, prominent Xenian, died Saturday night at 6 o'clock at his home at Galloway and Pleasant Sts., from injuries received earlier in the day when he fell down a flight of cellar steps at his home.

Mr. Ledbetter, who had been blind for almost five years, missed his footing on the upper step and fell headlong down the entire flight. He received a severe injury to his head, causing unconsciousness, and an unconscious state from which he never rallied.

Mr. Ledbetter was born on a farm three miles from Xenia on the Cincinnati Pike and graduated from Xenia High School. He was also one of the first graduates of Wilbur's Business College, Dayton.

Upon leaving the business school he accepted a position with the Cold Mill Dry Goods Co., where he was employed ten years, and then went to the Citizens National Bank where he was employed at short time. He later took a position with the Hoover and Allison Co., as bookkeeper, which he held for twenty-one years. He left that company to engage in the coal business, retiring from business four years ago because of failing eyesight.

He was married to Miss Clara B. Steele, September 12, 1882. His widow survives with two sons, Orin G. Ledbetter, this city and Arthur G. Ledbetter, Cincinnati, and one daughter, Mrs. A. S. Kany, Dayton. He was the last member of his immediate family.

Mr. Ledbetter was a life-long member of the Reformed Church. Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the Reformed Church, with burial in Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call at the late home after 7 o'clock Monday evening.

Miss Craig was born south of Xenia, near the Craig School, March 19, 1871 and spent all of her life in Greene County.

She leaves one brother, George Craig, Xenia, and two sisters, Mrs. Cora Querry, west of Xenia and Mrs. Emma Mills, where she made her home.

Miss Craig was a member of the Zoar M. E. Church. Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with burial in Spring Valley Cemetery.

I Have Said in My Heart

By Idah McGlone Gibson

UNDERSTANDING

While we are doing so much talking about "a better understanding" between different races and various nations; between capital and labor, Wall Street and the farmer, and between other widely divergent and apparently irreconcilable classes of the human race, why not try to clear up a little of the understanding with which men regard women?

Just when in the long distant past man came to the conclusion that woman was a conundrum which he declined to answer no one seems to know.

He has made her in his own mind a mixture of angel, Circe and fool.

He has never by any possibility thought of her as having the same human qualities as himself. He gallantly insists that she is composed of the entire flora and fauna of this earth—except that part of the animal kingdom to which he himself belongs.

One moment he gives her credit for having a brain and the next he insists that she shall be all heart.

He does not give her human faults or human virtues. He does not give her human idiosyncracies or human failings. Down deep in the heart of every man a woman is a woman, and nothing else.

Men still think of women as something that was created out of one of their unnecessary bones for their own little toys—something to be played with and cared for, kissed and dismissed, caressed and metaphorically cuffed, according to their vagrant fancies.

Men consider it no particular disgrace to chuck a coquettish waitress or chambermaid under the chin, to ask them to even dine with them if the woman is pretty enough to attract them, but a woman would feel herself much disgraced if she should act in the same way to a prepossessing bellhop or porter.

Woman is just as good and just as bad as man—no better, no worse. There are good men and bad men. There are good women and bad women, and a bad woman is no worse than a bad man.

Men have no superior intelligence, no superior judgment, no superior good sense, just because they have been born men.

Women have no superior goodness; they are no more selfish, no more loyal, no more devoted, than are men just because they have been born women.

The whole controversy over this man and woman equality and understanding question starts from the wrong premise. Men in one breath give women impossible virtues and yet seem to think they can be guilty of improbable vices.

Memo: Women have minds as well as hearts, courage as well as sympathy, reason as well as intuition.

TELLS THEM BY THEIR HORNS

LONDON, England—A London newspaper man who has been listening to the "beep-beep" of auto horns thinks one can easily tell the type of person driving a car by the sound of the horn. For instance, the sweet young thing who talks while she drives into your rear bumper gives several cute little squawks. Then there is the city truck driver who begins two streets away to wall, howl, roar, sputter and snarl. The taxi-driver merely cuts in ahead of you and cackles.

Regain Health this Way

There is a right way to regain health—if you are anemic, weak, nervous and run-down, because of thin, watery blood and deficient gland activity.

The way is easy, pleasant, prompt. It is scientific, for it deals with supplying the elements needed by the system. The method has been used successfully 16 years. The use of Cadomene Tablets has grown to over one million a week, by users telling others how effective the method is. There are people in your own circle who have regained lost health. Your doctor or druggist can tell you of "the miracle-like" recoveries of thin, anemic, weak, nervous-run-down folks.

Take from your food all calcium, phosphorus, iron and magnesium, and you wither and die. Reduces the amount your blood and glands should have, and you soon become afflicted with Nerve Trouble, Gland Trouble, Anemia, Weakness, Digestive Disorders, Infected Teeth, Headaches, Lowered Vitality, Fatigue, a tendency to have "colds" frequently and a general lethargy of mind and body.

The "Balance" or level of your system is upset, due to modern methods of preparing foods from which vital elements have been taken. Cadomene gives back this lost balance promptly. Six to eight weeks' use is time enough to produce a delightful buoyancy of spirit and reserve strength. Simply take three to six tablets daily as per directions.

Cadomene Tablets is not a cheap "catch penny" trade, but an efficient enricher of the blood and a potent strength-inducing agent. Go, try it now. Learn that you can be well and strong. Druggists everywhere sell Cadomene on a guarantee of delightful satisfaction or money back.

"JAPANESE TEA PARTY"

ENJOYED BY CHILDREN

Forty children of the Trinity M. E. Church enjoyed a "Japanese Tea Party," at the church Saturday afternoon. Several of the little girls attended the affair dressed in Japanese kimonos, and carrying parasols and fans. A Japanese village cleverly duplicated, was an attraction.

Mrs. George Street read the first chapter of study book and was assisted by Naomi Henkel who portrayed "Nancy" the American girl and Rachel Bell as "Butterfly," the Japanese girl.

After the program games engaged the children and refreshments of tea and wafers were served.

Mrs. Street was assisted in arranging and carrying through the party by Mrs. George Henkel, Mrs. Paul Turnbull, Mrs. L. A. Washburn and Miss Marjorie Street.

INDIGESTION WILL SPOIL YOUR LIFE

How to End Stomach Troubles. Although indigestion may not be chronic with many people, it is surprising how even slight pains or feelings of fullness after eating steal much of life's sparkle and happiness. Perhaps you scarcely notice it in the early stages, but remember indigestion never cures itself and usually gets worse. Be on your guard then.

The safest, surest and easiest way to end indigestion, heartburn, or flatulence is to take a little "Pape's Diapiesin" after meals or whenever pain is felt. This quickly stops your discomfort by neutralizing excess stomach acid and preventing fermentation, and at the same time soothes, heals and strengthens your delicate stomach lining.

Get a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapiesin" today—every drugstore sells and recommends it as a sure remedy for stomach troubles. Don't let indigestion spoil your life—you can't have stomach troubles and "Pape's Diapiesin" too! —Adv.

PROPOSES PROBE OF U. S. AIR DEFENSES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—With the possibilities disclosed by the trans-Atlantic air odyssey of Lindbergh and others weighing heavily upon the minds of members of congress, Rep. W. Frank James, (R) of Michigan, ranking Republican of the house military affairs committee, today announced that he would propose a thorough investigation of the state of the nation's air defense.

The tremendous advance made in the field of aviation may demand a complete change in the nation's present policies, James asserted. "My own view is that, in view of the flights over two oceans, we should seriously consider whether the five-year air program goes far enough," said James. "My personal impression is that it does not."

"I think the country ought to know what is being done with the five-year program and I shall recommend to our committee that it call Assistant Secretary of War, for air, Davison, Major-General Patrick, chief of the army air service, and Brig-Gen. Fechet, who will succeed him, to learn what is being done now and what they think should be done in the future."

DOG LICENSE SALE STARTS ON MONDAY

Sale of 1928 dog and kennel licenses began at the office of County Auditor R. O. Wead Monday.

An increase of 50 per cent in the price of the tags was recently voted by County Commissioners to meet the requirements of the dog and kennel fund for next year.

Licenses for male dogs cost $1.50, for females, $4.50 and for kennels, $15.

Owners of dogs and kennels are required to purchase the new licenses by January 20, 1928. After that date owners will automatically go on the delinquent list, which provides a penalty of $1.

Auditor Wead expects that 3,400 licenses will be sold if tags are purchased by every owner of dogs and kennels in the county.

LITTLE THINGS AND BIG BUSINESS

The cheapest and one of the smallest commodities in the world—a match, is the basis of the world's most far-flung corporation.

The negotiations of the Swedish-International match group with Bolivia for the business of that country will give this organization either monopolies or factories in practically every country in the world. The combination has recently signed a contract with the Ecuadorian government for a 25-year monopoly there, acquired a monopoly in Poland and a partial one in France, and purchased a match factory in Manila.

The Swedish-International, which according to Barron's Financial Weekly, is the largest match organization in the world, has 90 plants in 35 countries and employs more than 60,000 employees. Among the countries which either make or have to strike "International Swedish" matches by virtue of a monopoly are: France, United States, Poland, Greece, Portugal, Philippine Islands, Algiers, Norway, Germany, Peru, Great Britain, the British Dominions, Japan, Jugo-Slavia, Sweden, Australia and India.

LARGER WORLDS AND IDEAS

Many as they look back to their early homes, are impressed by the narrow limitations of those scenes.

The family horse would take their owners a few miles to the next town, and then he stopped. Millions of people lived in a world bounded by their ability to walk, or the ability of their horses to travel. There were no movies, people rarely took railroad journeys. They had little conception of their country outside this narrow circle. This limitation produced action distrust. People became satisfied with narrow conditions, and had little ambition.

Automobiles, the movies, the radio, more liberal traveling, these influences have broken down the boundaries of the old 6-mile world. People now roam all over the country. Sometimes they have less concentration, and will not stick to their job as well. But they are more intelligent, have fewer prejudices, and are quicker to take in new ideas.

SURPRISING FORD

How Ford was able to keep his plants partially idle for six months, spend millions of dollars in remodeling them and still lose less than a hundred and fifty million dollars is revealed by C. W. Barroff.

The veteran financial editor, who has recently been in Detroit, points out that Ford started six months ago with nearly three hundred and fifty millions cash to make his new car, and expected it might cost him two hundred millions.

"But," he continues, "the unexpected happened. The moment he discontinued the old car the imitation makers of parts vanished—like rats from a sinking ship. The demand for Ford parts rose to ten and twelve million dollars per month. This sounds large in the aggregate, but averages only $1 per car per month for the 10,000,000 Fords still on the highway."

This was a nice little return, and kept Ford's Highland Park plant, formerly assembling Model T cars, in partial manufacturing parts, and kept his bank account above two hundred million dollars.

The Way of the World

SENSE

Some time ago the newspapers printed the announcement of the marriage of the son of a rich Massachusetts family and an 18-year-old girl worker in a shoe factory. The young man is a graduate of Harvard. The girl's name was Tosia Szychoviz. Now this story is different from most stories of its kind. For the parents of the young man approved the match and welcomed the girl. The young woman had personality and character. Here are two parents who exercised some foresight and common sense. They had the sense of discrimination which enables one to pick out the important from the unimportant.

DEALING WITH CRIME

Herbert Hadley, who used to be governor of Missouri and is now at the head of Washington university in St. Louis, says: "It is my opinion that our system of apprehending and prosecuting those who commit major crimes is only from 10 to 15 per cent efficient. We should all stop to consider how long organized society can continue to exist, depending as it does for the protection of life and property upon a system that is as much as 90 per cent inefficient."

There is no more glaring fault in the operation of our democracy than the chronic delay in the courts. There is no more pronounced cause of crime than the delay in dealing with criminals.

WAILS OR SINGS

A wise man by the name of Israel Newman once wrote these lines: "Truths are metallic strings Across the scheme of things; And Life—the wind that strikes and wails—Or sings."

We can not escape truth. We have, soon or late, to face the facts. But the way in which we deal with those facts—the manner of our adjustment to them—determines whether life, for us, wails or sings.

INDIANS

Don't be misinformed about the original and real Americans. We perhaps think of the Indian as a dying race. As a matter of fact Indian population increases. There are now in the United States about 350,000 Indians. They have not all been pushed west. There are more than six thousand in New York state. Oklahoma has the most—more than 120,000. Some are getting rich off their oil lands. They should not be envied or grudging their prosperity. The true 100 per cent Americans have had little enough out of their homeland.

CHOOSING AND CHANGING

An old proverb says to be slow in choosing, but slower in changing. President Coolidge was slow in choosing, but he is equally slow in changing his choice.

NEWS COMMENT AND VIEWS

The Daybook

Of A New Yorker By Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—They tell this funny one on the grandeur of the mammoth Pennsylvania Hotel. The manager one day observed a large weary looking family of six, file into the gargantuan lobby, all in hiking clothes. The father disposed the cooking utensils to good effect, took a hitch in his hiking trousers, and sat down. The other members of the family, all in disheveled hiking kit, did likewise. At this point the startled official thought it time to investigate. He approached the group and inquired: "Are you waiting for someone?" Pa Hiker said no, just waiting for the train for Grand Rapids. And it was a rather relieved hotel man who hustled them on their way through the underground passages to the Pennsylvania Station across the street. They might still be parked on the hotel carpet if he hadn't asked that question.

The audiences at Max Reinhardt's presentation of "Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Century are large and varied. The German element is present, the butler-baker-delicatessen-dealer, and their pleased, frugal cut, and their seat mates are, like as not, the elect of the city, high-bred and opera-cloaked, a trifle bored at the intricacies of the Reinhardt extravaganza, but determined not to miss anything bizarre or worth while. The Century theatre, by the way, is a place not to be visited without recalling the epithet hurled gently at it by James Whitaker, former New York dramatic critic. Whitaker called the Century "a mausoleum," and the Shuberts thereafter barred him from all their theatres, so affronted were they at the writer's railleury, innocently aimed.

The Waldorf Hotel is putting a quick lunch service in its Palm Room. You can get packages of patchwork pieces, all ready cut, at the five a dime. Most of the girls on Fifth avenue, wearing leopard coats, look dangerously feline. The cop at Thirty-ninth street and Fifth avenue is invariably in a pet. The Union League Club at Fifty-first street, across from St. Patrick's Cathedral, has to call its building a move again, impelled by the march of trade. The old boys are much upset about it. Time was when Fifty-first street was way up town.

Some good women have got together and decided that the poor working girl can manage to dress well and even "look chic" on a yearly allowance of $250. The stocking budget includes only six pairs, a number at which my wife frankly sniffs. She does not believe, nor do I, that the girl who works can slide by and still have self-respecting heels to show to the world, on such a sock allowance. There is no warm cloth dress mentioned in the budget, and since the girl has just an ordinary, in fact a rather cheap winter coat, she must have such a coat in her wardrobe. Or freeze to death. I suppose that many of the brave smart little creatures dashing up and down the cross streets early in the morning do manage to keep their heels and soles together on such a skimpy allowance, but I wonder how they do it. The lady who compiled the figures also discovered that "less than half of these girls wear either cotton or wool stockings." And that one out of five had a fur coat, either a gift, or purchased on part-time payments. The long faced moralist might make something out of that "gift" explanation, but I am glad the poor little cuties get their fur coats, no matter how.

People in show business are saying, out of the corners of their mouths, that Lee Tracy, who plays the hoover in "Broadway" is now doing a tenth copy of his original version of the part. I saw Lee play the other night for the second time, and I think the wise crackers are all wrong. This boy Tracy seems indeed to have been born in the role. So far as I am concerned, he is as satisfactory as the first night he put on his false front and stepped into his comic trousers. He makes a hoover more actual than any real one I've ever known on the other side of the footlights. "Burllesque," the other behind-the-scenes play now showing in the Times Square district seems to me only a feeble imitation, in atmosphere and in "Broadway." And while Hal Skelly is himself a hoover in reality, he is not nearly so convincing as M. Tracy, who impersonates the type.

KELLYGRAMS by Fred C. Kelly

About Irish Dogs I have been looking everywhere for a glimpse of a real Irish terrier. But I never knew a place where these hard-coated, red dogs with the quizzical eyes are so scarce. An occasional Irishman knows where there is one, but usually it is in some other town, and he's hazy about the owner's name. Just for curiosity I'd like to go to the Shetland Islands and see if anybody there ever heard of a Shetland pony. I must start a search now for Irish steel. Wonder if they really have tailless Manx cats on the Isle of Man!

While Irish terriers are a scarce article, it is no trouble at all to find a Kerry blue terrier. The driver of a jaunting car had one seated behind him that I offered to sell me for $5. When I got back home I'll probably wish I had snapped up this bargain. A Kerry blue has a mass of blue-black hair in front of his eyes and looks like

Gray Hair in Youth

D. is very unhappy because her hair is turning gray and she is only 21 years of age. Do I advise her to have it dyed, or to run the risk of losing her fiancée by leaving it gray?

I certainly advise you to lose him, D., and the quicker the better, if his affection is so superficial that he would leave you because your hair is turning gray. It is not unusual for young people to be gray and it very frequently makes them strikingly handsome. Grayness is a thing that may run in families and yours may be an inherited characteristic. It doesn't necessarily mean unhealthly hair. Of course, the hair, as growing tissue, is greatly affected by the general health and the health of the scalp. We have an article on the care of the scalp

How to Achieve Beauty

Implements of Beauty as Christmas Gifts This may seem an odd title for a beauty article, but every woman must have implements with which to achieve beauty, just as the carpenter needs his tools. Although these implements are sometimes lacking in the decorative, luxurious value of the perfumes, cosmetics and other romantic beauty gifts which I have discussed this week, still they are exceedingly useful, and many of them may be obtained in attractive forms.

First in importance, I believe, are the brushes—all the way from the body brush to be used in the bath, down to the tiny eyelash brush with which to keep one's brows and lashes well groomed. Then there are the hair brushes and nail brushes—a wide array, indeed, among which to find a gift.

If you buy a hair brush, be sure that it has long bristles, even if you have to sacrifice a shiny silvered back.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Why a senator should rank as about twice as big a frog as a representative, in the national capital puddle, isn't very readily apparent. He's only a higher salaried frog, $10,000 a year, same as a representative.

Yet, for some reason, as a tree toad is to a bullfrog, so also is a member of the lower house of congress, compared with a member of the upper one, here in Washington. True, a representative's pretty important in his home burg, but let a senator show up even there, and the former croaks soft and low, so long as the visitor stays, while the latter honks his head off, till you can hear him all over the state, and sometimes farther.

Once on a time, when a senator was elected by his own private legislature, whereas a representative had to be elected by common folks' votes, just like a candidate for town marshal, there was an obvious difference.

Now, though, a senator has to be elected as hard as a representative.

To be sure, a representative has to do it every two years, and a senator only once in every six. However, when a senator does have to do it, he has an awful job on his hands. A representative's campaign in a tight little district, maybe only a few blocks square, like some of those in our bigger cities, isn't a circumstance to the statewide fight a senator has to put up.

Senators may have something on representatives in that there aren't so many of them—only 96, as against 435 representatives. But that rule doesn't apply in all cases.

In the 96th congress, we had with us Carl Hayden, Arizona's sole representative—the only one of his species—Arizona only has one.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Does Sin Bring Own Punishment? Ahes inners always punished? There are times when we would answer no to that. Surprisingly many of them seem to go on their way untouched by remorse. Possibly it is more seeming, however, and if we could look into their hearts we would see that they are not really happy.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a young married woman. I was married very young. Now I am parted from my husband because of his running around nights. I want to ask you if you think that a girl who comes between husband and wife will ever be punished, if not by law, by God? Do you think the law would permit them to marry if she was named in a divorce case?"

"ANXIOUS TO KNOW." Yes, I do think people who cause unhappiness to others are punished. Often the man a woman has charmed away from his wife tires of her, for a man who is not true to one woman may show that same fickleness to another. The law would not prevent her marrying, even though she was named in a divorce case.

May third cousins marry? That is the gist of the next letter. "Dear Mrs. Lee: Last summer I visited cousins of ours and met one boy about my age and we fell in love with one another. My parents don't approve of it, as we are cousins. We are only third cousins, so please advise me as I love him dearly."

"BLUE EYES." Third cousins are counted as no relation at all, Blue Eyes. One of our correspondents suggested forming a club for lonely young people.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I think it would be all right to have a club for young people, but what about middle-aged people? They are lonely too. I think it would be good to start a club for young and older people. I know hardly anybody in town and I am surely lonely."

"BROWN EYED MARY." There would not need to be an age limit in such a club, and it would be an excellent idea.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent.

A Cotton-Tail in Clover "I like to sit up on my haunches," remarked Cotton-Tail, with a pleased air. "It smells so fresh and fragrant, and the breeze that ruffles the grass tops tickles the end of my nose." And Rabbit sniffed so hard that he sneezed. Peter giggled, but young Cotton-Tail paid no attention to the Boy. He had just caught sight of something that gave him great pleasure.

"A new crop of clover, as sure as I'm a Cotton-Tail," squeaked he. "What a surprise! What a treat! I've not in this field for some time—that's why I didn't know it was here. It is some while since I've eaten, too. As a rule, 'tis not a long time between bites." Rabbit patted his fat tummy and looked at the Boy out of the corner of his eye.

"Do you mind if I take a bit of sweet refreshment, Two-Legs?" squeaked he, and although with whiskers were trembling with eagerness to be at the pink and white blossoms, he was polite enough to wait until Peter answered.

"I mind? Not a bit," declared the boy. "Go to it, young Cotton-Tail. You may have my share. Those clovers do look good enough to eat, but I'm not in the habit of dining on grass!" "Then you don't know what you miss!" declared the Rabbit, and four legs he dropped and bounded over to the clover patch, and there, nose deep, he waded in the pink and white blossoms, nibbling away to his heart's content. "M-m-m-m! How good this tastes!" murmured Cotton-Tail, his mouth full of clover. "I believe I could nibble the afternoon away. I hope nothing happens to disturb me." He stopped nibbling for a moment and looked up at Peter.

"But, then, nothing can. I made a detour and avoided those horrid Snakes-in-the-Grass, and then I turned in my tracks and sneaked upon them from the rear and heard them planning to leave the meadow for the Great Woods. Central Improves But Loses To Columbus Quintet

ONE POINT MARGIN SEPARATES XENIA FROM VICTORY SATURDAY

Locals Lost 11 To 10 In Game Featured By Tight Defense—Last Period Rally Nearly Wins For Coach Kolb's Pets

By PHIL FRAME

ALTHOUGH SHOWING amazing improvement over the preceding night and actually outplaying the visitors by a wide margin in the last half, Central High School basketball team were unequal to the task of overcoming the big lead compiled by Columbus Central High in the first two periods and lost their second straight game 11 to 10 Saturday night at the school gym.

Columbus, playing in a determined mood following its 20 to 6 defeat by Springfield on the evening previous, displayed a faultless passing game. The final score indicates the strict type of defense and sound passing game employed by both teams.

Columbus having a fast, rangy quintet, possessed an excellent defense and average offense. As the contest started, it was easily four or five minutes before either team scored. Xenia tallied first, Morton making a free throw. Shortly afterward Paul sent Columbus into the lead with a basket.

Both teams were playing a conservative, errorless type of basketball and the opening period ended with the visitors leading 2 to 1. In the second period, Columbus cut loose to run up the score. Captain Woodward hit the basket from mid-floor and Plank followed with a nice basket from a bad angle. Captain Woodward added a foul shot and then Morton shot Xenia's first field goal of the contest and the only one in the opening half.

Columbus led 9 to 3 at the half. In the second half there was a different story to tell. Both teams reverted to a tight defense in the third period, with the result a field goal by Captain Woodward and two free throws by Morton were the only markers of the quarter.

Fans will often talk of the last period of this game. Xenia, shooting desperately came within an ace of knotting the score and the visiting quintet, while being held scoreless in the fourth quarter, just managed to stave off defeat.

Scurry, subbing for Doak, shot a foul, reducing Columbus' lead to five points. Gibney sifted through a shot from mid-floor and the crowd went into an uproar. The score was 11 to 8 and fifty seconds remained to be played. Higgins, subbing for Smittle, zipped in a long shot to give the partisan crowd hysterics, and then the final gun sounded with Xenia trailing by one, lone point.

Captain Woodward of Columbus was largely responsible for his team's victory, scoring seven points. Morton led the Xenia attack with four, followed by Gibney with three. The entire Xenia team showed marked improvement over the opening game. More accuracy is still needed in shooting but the defense played little to be desired. Xenia played in championship form in the final half. Not a personal foul was called on a Xenia player in the last two quarters and the Blue and White outscored its opponents 7 to 2.

Xenia made four fouls out of nine chances while Columbus shot three free throws out of an equal number of opportunities. Captain Clemans, playing his first game, gave a fine defensive exhibition under the handicap of an injured ankle and shoulder. Morton, Gibney, Doak, Smittle, Higgins, Scurry and Bell also gave excellent performances. Xenia will meet Wilmington High on the latter's court Tuesday.

JUNIOR HIGH TEAM BEATS GREENFIELD FIVE IN THRILLER

Youngsters In Good Form Against McClain Juniors

Shooting with newly-found accuracy and presenting a virtually impenetrable defense, Central Junior High School's basketball quintet defeated McClain Junior High of Greenfield 14 to 5 with a thrill from start to finish, preliminary to the Central-Columbus game Saturday night at the school gym.

The contest marked the first time in the history of the Greenfield school that its Junior High team has played away from its own floor.

Central Junior showed marked improvement both on offense and defense. The game was strictly a defensive battle with neither team obtaining many shots of the "sure" variety.

McClain attempted twenty-one shots during the game, twenty of which were from mid-floor, making two field goals. The local quintet tried twenty-three shots, making five baskets.

Captain King, Central Junior's running right guard, was the shining light with seven points. Allen topped McClain with three.

Coach Glen Patterson changed his lineup considerably following the one-point defeat by Leesburg the night before. Flory, diminutive forward, was started. Thompson jumped center, then shifted to his original back guard position. He put up a good defensive game. Ringer followed up shots well. The Xenia team was well balanced and had an exceptionally tight defense.

Central Junior will meet Wayneville Junior High on the latter's floor next Friday night. Lineups and summary:

Xenia (11)	McClain (5)
Ringer	l. f.
Cremer	r. f.

BOOZE EXPLODES AS FIREMEN FIGHT FIRE
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12.—Firemen here are discussing a new menace connected with the fire fighting business.
Recently they were called to the north side here to extinguish a blaze that had developed a large sedan. When the firemen began to throw chemicals on the car there was a series of short sharp explosions. The firemen were kept busy dodging glass and corks.
When the fire was put out it was found that the car was "filled to the brim with pint and half-pint bottles of whiskey, according to the report made to the police.
When police arrived on the scene, the owner of the car had disappeared. The car bore Indiana license plates. There was also a set of Michigan license tags in the car, according to authorities.

Money Love
By BEATRICE BURTON Author of "SALLY'S SHOULDERS" "HONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL," ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:
LILY LEXINGTON, spoiled only daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTON TONS, is engaged to marry a rich bachelor named STALEY DRUMMOND. Then she falls in love "at first sight" with a taxi driver whom she sees on the street. He takes her home, and on the way he tells her his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a corner taurant. The man from Angouleme headed by his friend, JETTERSON. He adds that he is going to sell it to finance a pistol which he has perfected and wants to put on the market.

He and his cab vanish from the streets, and Lily misses him so much that she decides she cannot marry Staley Drummond, feeling about Pat as she does. But about this time her mother and the plans for the wedding are made. About a month before Mrs. Lexington hires a new chauffeur, and when he comes he is—Pat France! From that moment on, Lily knows she can't marry Staley. And with her wedding dress all made, her wedding invitations engraved and some of the presents in the house, she throws Staley over and marries Pat! They live with their parents in their little house next door to their garage, and Lily finds that she is supposed to help with the housework during the day while Pat is busy at Jetterson's garage, and his sister FL.

He climbed over the side of the fence, is at work in a downtown office. But she has no work, and she sits her on the pavement. "I didn't cut burn she, and Mrs. France have words, and she persuades Pat to rent a flat where they can live by themselves. But after they are in it, she finds that there is lots to do, and she hates that. More so, Pat life is not so pleasant with Pat. He is away all day, and very often in the evening, and she welcomes an invitation to play bridge at Sue Cain's house one day after about four months of marriage and drudgery. But she has no fall clothes, and she goes to Angouleme's French Shop where she has always charged clothes to her father, and charges a whole outfit to him. After some delay the clerk tells her that her mother has telephoned to say that she cannot charge things to her father. Lily takes the clothes when no one is looking, and wears them to Sue's house. Sue tells her that Staley Drummond still cares for her; and when a store detective comes for the clothes, Lily's first thought is to tell her father that the money is to pay for them. She telephones him from a near-by lunch room.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXXIV
"Staley, I'm in a whole peck of trouble," Lily said to him, in her lovely, velvety voice, "and you're the only person I know who can help me out—"
She paused and waited for that to sink in before she went on about the money she wanted from him. It seemed so heartless and cold, somehow, to call him up after four months, only to tell him that all she wanted from him was money.
"You were the first person I thought of Staley," she went on, "when this thing happened."
"What thing?" he asked. "What in the dickens has gone wrong, Lily?"
"Well, I bought some clothes today at Angouleme's," she began, "and he said I was a thief. And they wouldn't let me charge them to my father, as I always had—and I wanted them, Staley, I just walked out with them naturally."
At this point Staley gave a low, long-drawn whistle that could be plainly heard through the telephone. "Whew! you mean you stole them?" he asked, and Lily winced at the ugly word.
"Why, no—they had no right to refuse me the clothes," she answered. "I've bought all my clothes there for years. Well, anyway, there for their credit man or their store detective, or somebody, out to see me and get the money from my husband. I'm telephoning you from a restaurant near my home, and the man is with me. Staley, if you please come out here and give it to him so he'll go away and leave me in peace?—I'm so afraid he'll go to my husband."
Dead silence for a minute. Then Staley's voice again:
"How much do you owe, Lily?"
She did not know. She simply had wanted the clothes, said she would take them, and charged them to her father. The only thing she was sure of was the price of the $15 Blue Star perfume.
She opened the door of the telephone booth and spoke to the man from Angouleme's. "How much do I owe you?" she asked him.
He pulled some slips of paper from his pocket and looked at them.
"Three hundred and thirty dollars," Lily repeated the figure to Staley. "It's quite a lot—$330," she answered. "My father is out of town, or he would pay it of course. And I'll see that he does when he comes back home—I couldn't let you do this for me otherwise."
"Where are you now?" Staley cut in upon her. "Tell me how to get there."
Lily told him, and he hung up the receiver at the end of the wire. Then she went out into the glare and steam of the little white-tiled you?" Lily did not answer. For the first time she began to doubt that she really was happy. She loved Pat. That went without saying. "Oh, I don't know whether I'm happy or not, Staley," she did her thinking aloud. "I don't get much time to think about it. My life is just work—and maybe a picture show a couple of nights a week, or a shopping trip all by myself, in the afternoon, sometimes. No, I'm not happy really."

Staley said nothing. He was one of those extraordinary people who know when not to speak. "I didn't realize how lonely I was until this afternoon, when I went to Sue Cain's house to a party. Lily went on, just as he had known she would, if he kept silent. All the girls were there—all of them with lovely new clothes on, and their cars standing in the street outside the house. And, Staley, I was just plain homesick by the end of the afternoon—I do hate being poor and never seeing anybody that's any fun, or doing anything that's any fun." Her voice broke on a tragic note.
"You'd better turn the car and take me home now," she said, after two or three minutes. "I should have been home an hour ago—to put the potatoes on and fry the meat for supper."
They drove all the way back to the Boyle St. lunch room in silence. As they pulled up before it, the steam-covered door of it opened and out stepped Elizabeth Ertz in her uniform of a visiting nurse. She looked straight at them, but she did not speak to Lily.
Lily gasped.
"What's the matter?" the man beside her asked, and she told him. "That girl—she's Pat's old sweetie! She saw us and she'll be sure to tell him about it. Her eyes were on the small retreating figure of the little nurse."
"Don't be silly. What is she does tell him?" asked Staley. "Is there anything wrong about your being here with me?—I'm sure this has been harmless enough—this little run in the car."
Lily nodded, but she had a guilty, shameful feeling all the same. She got out of the roadster, and held out her gloved hand.
"When are you going to see me again?" Staley asked, holding it in his. "Tomorrow?"
"Oh, no—Lily had no thought of ever seeing him again. She had no desire to see him again. Now at all. He had served his purpose, and that was the end of it."
"Day after tomorrow, then?" he asked.
She tried to say "No" once more, but it was hard to refuse him when she had just borrowed something over three hundred dollars from him.
"All right," she said, so. I'm going to telephone him later and tell him she couldn't do it, after all."
"Be outside my office-building then, at 5 o'clock—day after tomorrow," Staley told her, as he let her go.
It was just 7 o'clock when Lily unlocked the door of the flat that night and stepped into the sitting room.
Pat was there before her, reading the paper in the only comfortable chair in the place. Her heart sank into her high-heeled shoes when she saw him start, frown, and then sit up straight, with his face filled with angry curiosity. "What have you done?" he asked, his blue eyes taking in the little French hat, the fur-trimmed coat, the gold-embroidered dress that showed beneath it. "Opened a charge account? You know, I've told you not to!"

EARLY DISCOVERY OF TUBERCULOSIS SEAL SALE OBJECT

It used to be believed that in children the lymph glands, the bones and the joints were especially prone to infection with tuberculosis while the lungs were only rarely involved.

With more accurate study and the increasing use of the X-ray, this idea has been disproved, says Dr. S. W. Schaefer in Hygeia, popular health publication of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Schaefer presents the following conclusions following a study of tuberculosis in children:

There is a relatively high percentage of pulmonary tuberculosis in children.

These children do well if the disease is discovered early and proper care is promptly given.

It is the responsibility of parents and educators as well as physicians to see that our children, who are just getting ready to live, shall be able to live their lives without the perpetual handicap of impaired health.

Discovery of early cases of tuberculosis and proper care of children predisposed to tuberculosis is the chief objective of the Greene County Health League for which funds are now being raised through the sale of Christmas Seals in Greene County. The dollars worth of seals which you purchase may help to save a child's life.

Girl And Boy Tell How They Became Healthiest

Marie Antrim and J. Frederick Christman, chosen healthiest girl and boy.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Fresh air rather than cosmetics.

These are recommended by 15-year-old Marie Antrim, Kansas farm girl, to those who would be healthy.

She was voted the healthiest girl in the United States at a convention of Four-H clubs, composed of farm boys and girls and sponsored by the department of agriculture.

Three years ago, Marie decided she'd like to become the healthiest girl in the land. Realizing that the honor could be gained only by dint of persistence, she outlined a rigorous program for herself.

She went to bed at nine, and arose at 6:30. Then came setting up exercises and a hearty breakfast of cereal, fruit, bacon and eggs, potatoes, bread and butter and milk. At noon and at night she ate vegetables, plenty of fruit, milk, and very little meat. She also drank a lot of water and milk.

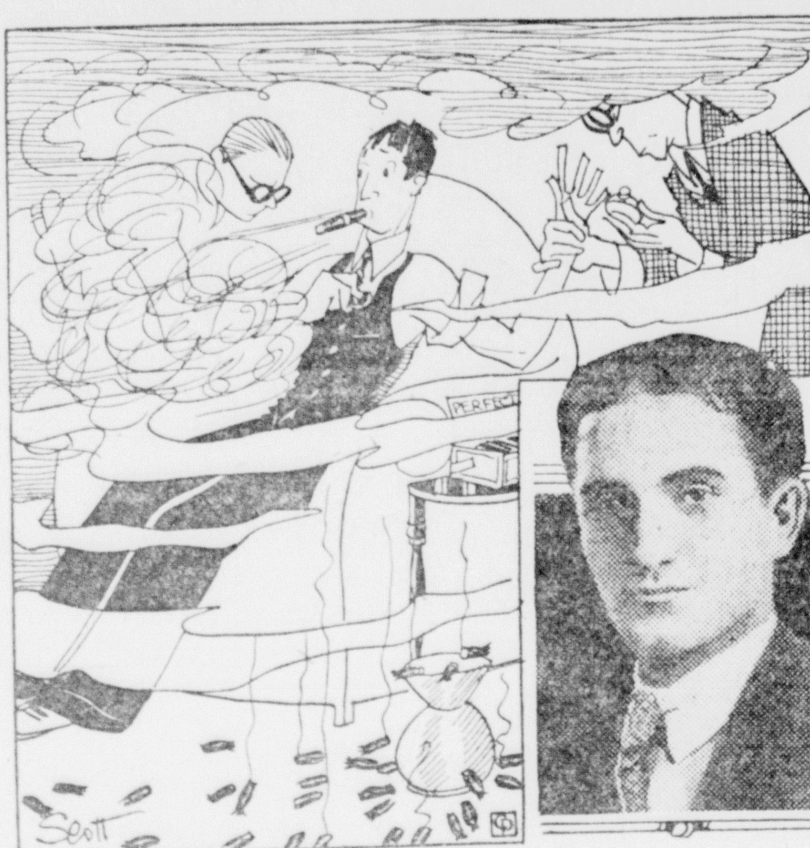

Her posture prevented her from winning first award in one contest, so Marie resumed training. She practiced standing at arm's length from the wall with palms against it and bending forward and backwards, her chin touching the wall.

Result—first prize in this year's competition in which girls from forty-four states were entered.

J. Fred Christman, 18, of Blanchard, Ia., who was adjudged the most healthy boy followed much the same health rules as outlined by Miss Antrim.

Football and basketball helped to make him physically perfect, he asserts.

PROVES SMOKING NOT HARMFUL

VINCENT MADDI

By KEEN A. RAFFERTY

Staff Writer for Central Press and Gazette

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 12.—Vincent Maddi, M. Rosen and N. W. Bonelli had an argument about smoking.

Now Maddi, Rosen and Bonelli are three medical students at the University of Maryland, and when they have a physiological argument they mean business.

So They Experiment

Maddi declared to Rosen and Bonelli that, after all, tobacco's harmful effects lie in abuse of its use. Rosen and Bonelli shook their heads and maintained that Maddi's four cigars a day would have a bad effect.

So they all took a day off, went up to Maddi's apartment with a box of perfectos, got out instruments and record blanks, and went at the matter with methodical daring.

Maddi began to smoke at 10 a. m. He smoked like Robert Fulton's steamboat. Smoke bombarded the ceiling of his apartment. It got behind the pictures on the wall and under the rug. It permeated the wall paper. Worse, it kept coming. Maddi smoked until 6:05 p. m. He smoked thirty cigars, and he maintains, he proved his point.

Outlines Effects

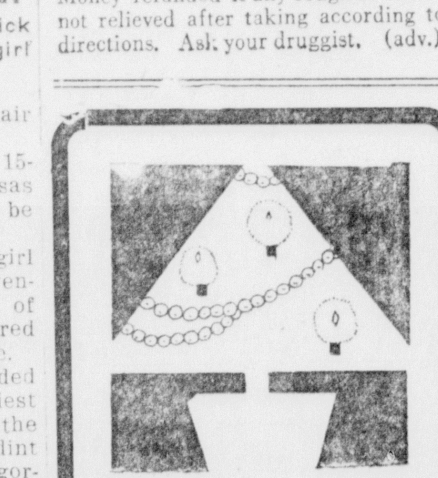

Carefully he outlines the results: An increase in blood pressure from 120-75 to 140-85 during the first six hours; increases in respiration from seven to thirty-six; the peak in the total eight hours; increase in pulse from eighty to 110 in the first five hours; and, progressively, increased salivation, burning sensation of tongue and mouth, small appetite, irritability, flushed face, quick breathing, muscular weakness, need of rest, a temperature, greater expectation, muscular tremors, giddiness, clammy appearance, some heart irregularity, paleness.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

WANT LOWER RATES

Farmers of Ohio and neighboring states continued their fight for lower freight rates on fertilizer at an open hearing of more than four days duration before the Interstate Commerce and Ohio Public Utility Commission in Columbus starting December 5. Reports of the hearing have just reached the office of the Greene County Farm Bureau.

The hearing was on a complaint originally filed by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation more than four years ago. Since the filing of the original complaint farm bureaus of neighboring states and a number of fertilizer manufacturers have joined in the protest.

Evidence submitted by the farm groups and manufacturers showed that rates on fertilizer in other sections of the country have for some time been lower than in this section. They also said that rates between certain points within Central Freight Association territory had recently been reduced. Those seeking lower rates believed that the fact that use of fertilizer increased crop yields and in turn provides additional traffic for carriers should be considered.

Carriers, opposing the requested reduction, introduced evidence to show that they were not receiving unfair returns on investment, and greater returns than other commodities carried.

If the complaint is granted by the commissions, a saving in freight rates of close to a dollar a ton will result.

BUREAU MEETING

Close to fifty Ohioans were numbered among the 600 farmers who gathered from forty states for the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Chicago last week, according to reports reaching the office of the Greene County Farm Bureau. National problems of farmers and of farm organizations were discussed at the three day meeting which started December 5.

L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, was re-elected to his position on the board of directors of the national organization. S. H. Thompson of Illinois was again chosen president and E. A. O'Neal of Alabama vice-president.

The financial condition of the farmer's national organization was reported as stronger than at any time in its history. With farm bureaus now operating in thirty-eight states, officials of the organization recommended the strengthening of three state groups, and expansion into unorganized states.

Farmers from all sections of the country are decrying the present agricultural situation, returning Ohioans say. President Thompson, in his annual address urged a closer study of farm conditions and a better understanding of farmers' needs. He said farmers want no government price fixing nor direct nor indirect subsidy, but insisted on farm legislation which will require each marketed unit of a commodity to pay its share in the costs of its own stabilization and protection.

BASKETFUL OF WRIGLERS

WARREN, O.—Breaking open a small size egg, which he found lying near a barn a Warren resident found it to contain a young and very much alive blacksnake. The man at first thought the reptile a rather because in the vicinity were found, occasionally, rattlers and was considerably concerned when upon looking further he discovered in a nearby load of fertilizer more than a bushel basket full of eggs. A snake "expert" has informed him though that the infant wrigglers were black snakes. Oh, yes! the basketful of eggs was buried in a far away spot.

ALLEGED POISONER LEAPS TO DEATH

GOVERNOR CALLS OUT TROOPS TO PREVENT MEETING OF SOLONS

Oklahoma Executive Emulates Former Governor—
Would Check Attempt To Impeach Him—
House Prepares Charges

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 12.—Following the precedent established by Gov. J. C. (Jack) Walton, in 1923, Gov. Henry S. Johnston of Oklahoma, today ordered out state troops to prevent a meeting of the Oklahoma legislature which was to convene at 10 o'clock this morning in self-convened session to vote impeachment charges.

"Keep the legislature from meeting," was Governor Johnston's order. The legislature met ten days ago and organized investigating committees, the senate resolving itself into a high court of impeachment to await charges from the house. Various moves in court ensued on the part of the governor and last week the supreme court of the state ruled the session was not legal.

The criminal court of appeals, however, ruled the house members had the power to meet and consider impeachment charges. The charges have been carefully guarded.

Brig. Gen. Charles McPherrin was in charge of the troops. He was ordered to use as many soldiers as necessary to prevent the legislature from assembling.

CREW MISSING FROM LAKE VESSEL FOUND FROZEN OFF ISLAND

Seek Twenty Two Men—
Crews Of Two Others Saved

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., Dec. 12.—With the crews of the wrecked steamers Altadoc and Agawa safe ashore, search was continued today for twenty-two other men comprising the crew of the Matthews Steamship company's steamer Lambton, encased in ice and hard ground off Parisienne Island in Lake Superior.

Tugs which reached the ship found her wheel and rudder swept away, the crew and life boats gone, the fires out, her hull buckled amidships and filled with water. Footprints frozen in the ice on her deck indicated the crew had left since the storm.

Although the tugs circled the island searching for the twenty-two men comprising the crew, no trace of them was found. If they made shore on the Canadian mainland they are in a trackless wilderness. If they reached the American shore eleven miles away some word should have been received from them before now.

The twenty-two members of the crew of the Agawa told vivid stories of hardships. Waves broke over the stranded steamer, and bitter zero winds swept through the battered cabins. The men had nothing to eat and smoked tobacco to keep down the pangs of hunger.

The ship is a total loss with 200,000 bushels of grain in her hold. Twenty-one men rescued from the Canadian steamer Altadoc were leaving today for their homes.

When rescued they were huddled in the forward cabin. Frank McKee, of Toronto, the ship's wireless operator was sealed in his wireless room by a wall of ice. Rescuers chopped their way to him.

Concern is still felt for three other ships missing on the lakes three days. They are the Saskatoon, King and Lake Chelan.

An unconfirmed report said a ship was aground on Pancake Shoals. Seamen said it was possible either the King or Lake Chelan might be in this position.

The steamer Maritan is still aground on Hare Island, but its crew is in no danger.

The steamer Eades was in a precarious condition after striking a rock in West Neebish Cut of St. Mary's River. She was reported leaking badly. Tugs rushed to her.

"BIG NAVY" BATTLE REACHES SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The "big navy" fight was transferred to the senate today with administration leaders hopeful of getting action of the $206,000,000 first deficiency appropriation bill before nightfall.

The measure carried a $940,000 appropriation for elevating guns on the battleships Oklahoma and Nevada to meet the range of British and Japanese warships.

The gun elevation amendment was sponsored by Rep. Butler (R) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the naval affairs committee. He secured its adoption when he asserted that the secretary of the Navy had ruled the elevation would not constitute a violation of the spirit of the Washington disarmament conference.

COMMUNIST REBELS SLAY HUNDREDS IN REVOLT AT CANTON

Officials Ousted By Peasant Revolt—
Generals Flee

CANTON, China, Dec. 12.—Canton was in a state of revolt today and under complete control of thousands of avowedly communist rebels who attacked the government buildings, ousted officials, killed and wounded hundreds of soldiers and announced that they would form a "red government."

The streets were deserted except for marauding bands of blood-thirsty rebels and bodies of the dead and wounded.

Desperate street fighting has resulted in hundreds dead and wounded.

The railroad near the Nanking station was dynamited and communication with Hong Kong is at a standstill.

Looting was the order of the day and numerous fires have broken out in the city.

The revolt started when two thousand peasants and laborers, aided by five thousand military revolutionaries, taking advantage of the fact that the majority of the troops of Generals Changkuei and Hong-chihshang were away at the front, attacked the government buildings and ousted all the officials.

The two generals, whose recent coup forced Lichiang from power, were compelled to flee aboard a warship, narrowly escaping death at the hands of the infuriated rebels.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Authoritative reports of the revolt in Canton reached Hong Kong today, according to a Central News dispatch from that city.

The looting and burning by rebel bands continues and the city government is reported as having fled to Honan Island.

Advices reaching Hong Kong stated that the rebels, number 20,000, have begun disarming the police.

Artist sketches scenes depicted in confession, Perry, O., following a quarrel over going to a card game, during which both came to blows, the wife says. When the husband had been killed with a hammer blow, the wife calmly went to the card game in nearby Cleveland. The following morning she went Christmas shopping with her mother—then was arrested. The sheriff then told of a confession calmly given.

LOWDEN HELPS FARM BILL BY ENDORSING EQUALIZATION FEE
BRUSH WITH MEXICO OVER BRIBE CHARGES APPEARS IMMINENT
U. S. Claims Right To Subpoena Agent As Witness

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The fight to pass the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill despite an almost certain veto by President Coolidge gained new impetus as a result of emphatic endorsement of the bill by ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois.

Members of the farm bloc have indicated a willingness to compromise on almost every issue but the equalization fee. This, they say, must stay in the bill.

Lowden declared that no farm relief could be effective without this fee to make up losses incurred in marketing surpluses abroad.

He declared that "restoration of the farming industry" is the biggest issue of the 1928 presidential campaign.

With a revised McNary-Haugen bill already introduced in the senate and a companion measure due to go into the house soon, preliminaries of the fight were well under way with the prospect of legislative action coming shortly after the holidays.

Lowden conferred here with many congressional leaders in the farm relief fight. He indicated that he would take no active part in the congressional squabble, beyond continued advocacy of farm relief in public addresses.

He also clarified his attitude toward the presidency. He stood upon his previous declaration that "no man ever ran away from the presidential nomination for his friends to gain the Republic."

He also indicated that he would not take himself out of the campaign, saying that he saw "no possibility of a change of my status in that direction."

PROTESTS ATTACK MADE ON AMERICAN
BUCHAREST, Dec. 12.—At the request of Mrs. Keller, W. S. Culbertson, American minister, has protested to the Roumanian Government against the attack on and wounding of Captain Keller, of Pennsylvania, in the Roumanian students' anti-semitic riots, it was learned today.

Captain Keller was badly beaten and stabbed during a riot in Grosswardein when he attempted to address the students from a balcony.

The British ambassador has also lodged a protest against the destruction of two British flags during the disorders.

The Roumanian Government announced an investigation was progressing.

BANK ROBBER GOES ON TRIAL MONDAY

BUYRUS, O., Dec. 12.—Trial of Harry Zillick, Toledo, for alleged complicity in the $175,000 Commercial Savings Bank robbery at Galion, last June 28, opened in Common Pleas Court here today.

Eight witnesses have been subpoenaed by the state and twenty-two by the defense. Five of the state's witnesses are expected to positively identify Zillick as one of the bandits who staged the sensational hold-up.

The prosecution will probably be conducted along the same lines as that of Wilbur Hand who has already been convicted. Selection of a jury, out of a panel of twenty-five names, was taken up immediately after court opened.

BILLIONS IN AMERICA'S RAINY DAY FUNDS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—America's rainy day account for 1927 is measured by a figure of eleven digits—$26,032,001,000.

That stupendous wealth, nearly three times the entire world's monetary gold supply, was piled in the banks of United States on June 30, Comptroller of the Currency J. W. McIntosh announced today.

Even at the three per cent interest rate of the savings banks it commands an annual $780,000,000 return.

Savings accounts probably were several billion dollars greater on December 1, just before the Christmas checks were mailed to depositors.

ATTORNEY ESCAPES GUARDS AND JUMPS FROM TRAIN WINDOW

Urbana Man Cheats Law After Arrest In New York

CONNEAUT, O., Dec. 12.—While enroute from New York City to Urbana, Ohio, where he was wanted for an alleged attempt to poison his divorced wife and her family at Urbana, Harold Hawkins, 32, former Dayton, Ohio, attorney, escaped from Sheriff P. V. Jones of Champaign County, O., and Chief of Police P. K. Powers, of Urbana, leaped from the train, said to have been traveling fifty miles an hour, and was killed early Sunday.

Hawkins' head was crushed in and his right leg was broken after his body rolled approximately 800 feet. A verdict of suicide was rendered by Coroner Dan Hading, of Erie, Pa.

Hawkins left Urbana following discovery of poison in a bottle of coffee, used in the attack on his father-in-law, John P. Jones, who died Sunday.

Only a few days ago, Hawkins was arrested in New York and Urbana authorities charged him with the murder of his father-in-law.

Today, accompanied by a sheriff and chief of police, he was sent to Erie, Pa., where he was held in jail.

"About 7 a. m., Jones continued, 'While Chief Powers and I were sitting with the prisoner, and the train was running about thirty miles an hour, suddenly the train stopped and the prisoner jumped out of the window with his shackled hands and went through a window and landed on the ground. I managed to grab his coat-tail but it ripped away from his hand.'

Hawkins body was brought here. Yordy, Sheriff Jones and Chief Powers proceeded to Urbana.

Urbana, O., Dec. 12.—The body of Harold Hawkins, alleged prisoner, who killed himself by leaping through the window of a speeding New York Central passenger train shortly after midnight Sunday morning, arrived here early today.

Hawkins had been arrested in New York, and was being brought back here for an alleged attempt to poison members of his family last summer.

Ten years ago, Hawkins, a young lawyer, married Violet Yordy, of this town. Later, they separated and the father sought to obtain the custody of the two children, now six and eight years old.

Balked in this, he attempted vengeance on the whole family last August according to police. He hired a man to distribute samples of coffee to a number of houses, one box in particular to go to the Yordy home, authorities declare.

He had surmised correctly, police say, that the two children do not drink coffee, but his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Yordy and a maid in the house, did, and were made ill. From that time until his capture in New York, several days ago, Hawkins has been a fugitive.

John Yordy, Hawkins' father-in-law, accompanied the sheriff and police chief to New York to assist in the identification. He was on the same train, but in a different coach, when the prisoner plunged through the window. W. C. Hawkins, the deceased's father, still makes his home here.

NEWTON LEDBETTER DIES FROM INJURY RECEIVED IN FALL

Newton Ledbetter, 76, prominent citizen, died Saturday night at 6 o'clock at his home at Galloway and Pleasant Sts. from injuries received earlier in the day when he fell down a flight of cellar steps at his home.

Mr. Ledbetter, who had been blind for almost five years, missed his footing on the upper step and fell headlong down the entire flight. He received a severe injury to his head, causing him to fall into an unconscious state from which he never rallied.

Mr. Ledbetter was born on a farm three miles from Xenia on the Cincinnati Pike and graduated from Xenia High School. He was also one of the first graduates of Will's Business College, Dayton.

Upon leaving the business school he accepted a position with the old Millen Dry Goods Co., where he was employed ten years, and then went to the Citizens National Bank where he was employed a short time. He later took a position with the Heinen and Allison Co., as bookkeeper, which he held for twenty-one years. He left that company to engage in the coal business, retiring from business four years ago because of failing eyesight.

He was married to Miss Clara B. Steele, September 12, 1882. His widow survives with two sons, Orin G. Ledbetter, this city and Arthur of Cincinnati and one daughter, Mrs. A. S. Kany, Dayton. He was the last member of his immediate family.

Mr. Ledbetter was a life-long member of the Reformed Church. Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the Reformed Church, with burial in Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call at the late home after 7 o'clock Monday evening.

I Have Said in My Heart

By Idah McGlone Gibson
UNDERSTANDING

While we are doing so much talking about "a better understanding" between different races and various nations, between capital and labor, Wall Street and the farmer, and between other widely divergent and apparently irreconcilable classes of the human race, why not try to clear up a little of the understanding with which men regard women?

Just when in the long distant past man came to the conclusion that woman was a conundrum which he declined to answer no one seems to know.

He has made her in his own mind a mixture of angel, Circe and fool.

He has never by any possibility thought of her as having the same human qualities as himself. He gallantly insists that she is composed of the entire flora and fauna of this earth—except that part of the animal kingdom to which he himself belongs. One moment he gives her credit for having a brain and the next he insists that she shall be his heart.

He does not give her human faults or human virtues. He does not give her human idiosyncracies or human failings. Down deep in the heart of every man a woman is a woman, and nothing else.

Men still think of women as something that was created out of one of their unnecessary bones for their own little toys—something to be played with and cared for, kissed and dismissed, caressed and metaphorically cuffed, according to their vagrant fancies.

Men consider it no particular disgrace to chuck a coquettish waitress or chambermaid under the chin, to ask them to even dine with them if the woman is pretty enough to attract them, but a woman would feel herself much disgraced if she should act in the same way to a prepossessing bellhop or porter.

Woman is just as good and just as bad as man—no better, no worse. There are good men and bad men. There are good women and bad women, and a bad woman is no worse than a bad man.

Men have no superior judgment, no superior good sense, just because they have been born men.

Women have no superior goodness; they are no more selfish, no more loyal, no more devoted, than are men just because they have been born women.

The whole controversy over this man and woman equality and understanding question starts from the wrong premise. Men in one breath give women impossible virtues and yet seem to think they can be guilty of improbable vices.

Memo: Women have minds as well as hearts, courage as well as sympathy, reason as well as intuition.

TELLS THEM BY THEIR HORNS

LONDON, England.—A London newspaper man who has been listening to the "beep-beep" of auto horns thinks one can easily tell the type of person driving a car by the sound of the horn. For instance, the sweet young thing who talks while she drives into your rear bumper gives several cute little squawks. Then there is the city truck driver who begins two streets away to wail, howl, roar, sputter and snarl. The taxi-driver merely cuts in ahead of you and cackles.

Regain Health this Way

There is a right way to regain health—if you are anemic, weak, nervous and run-down, because of thin, watery blood and deficient gland activity.

The way is easy, pleasant, prompt, is scientific, for it deals with supplying the elements needed by the system. The method has been used successfully 15 years. The use of Cadomene Tablets has grown to over one million a week, by those telling others how effective the method is. There are people in your own circle who have regained lost health. Your doctor or druggist can tell you of "the miracle-like" recoveries of thin, anemic, weak, nervous-run-down folks.

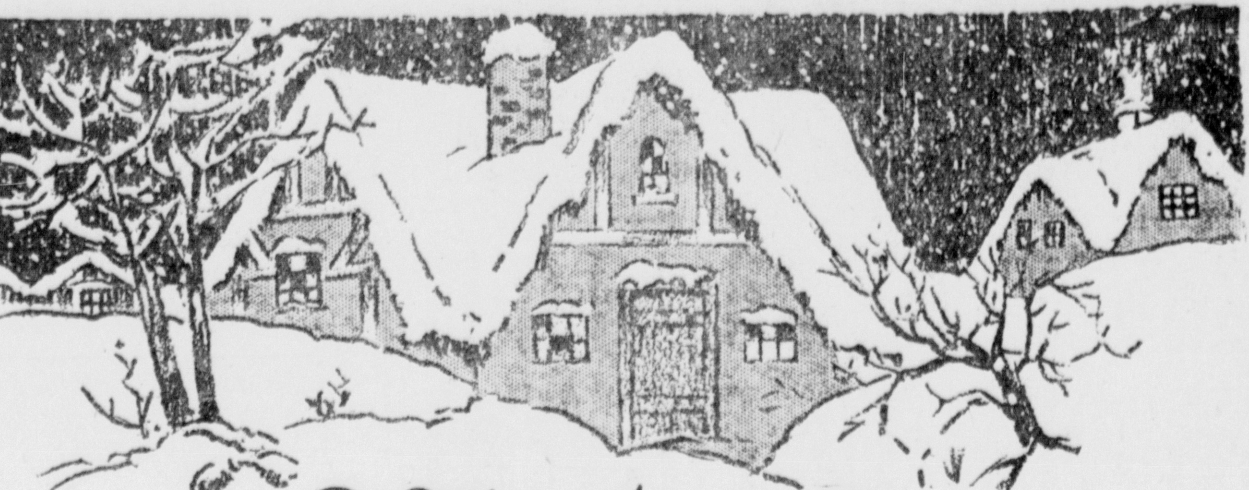

Take from your food all calcium, phosphorus, iron and magnesium—and you wither and die. Reduce the amount your blood and glands should have, and you soon become afflicted with Nerve Trouble, Gland Trouble, Anemia, Weakness, Digestive Disorders, Infected Teeth, Headaches, Lowered Vitality, Fatigue, a tendency to have "colds" frequently and a general lethargy of mind and body.

The "Balance" or level of your system is upset, due to modern methods of preparing foods from which vital elements have been taken. Cadomene gives back this lost balance promptly. Six to eight weeks' use is time enough to produce a delightful buoyancy of spirit and reserve strength. Simply take three to six tablets daily as per directions.

Cadomene Tablets is not a cheap "catch penny trade," but an efficient enricher of the blood and a potent strength-inducing agent. Go, try it now. Learn that you can be well and strong. Druggists everywhere sell Cadomene on a guarantee of delightful satisfaction or money back.

INDIGESTION WILL SPOIL YOUR LIFE

How to End Stomach Troubles. Although indigestion may not be chronic with many people, it is surprising how even slight pains or feelings of fullness after eating steal much of life's sparkle and happiness. Perhaps you scarcely notice it in the early stages, but remember indigestion never cures itself and usually gets worse. Be on your guard then.

The safest, surest and easiest way to end indigestion, heartburn, or flatulence is to take a little "Pape's Diapiesin" after meals or whenever pain is felt. This quickly stops your discomfort by neutralizing excess stomach acid and preventing fermentation, and at the same time soothes, heals and strengthens your delicate stomach lining.

Get a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapiesin" today—every drugstore sells and recommends it as a sure remedy for stomach troubles. Don't let indigestion spoil your life—you can't have stomach troubles and "Pape's Diapiesin" too! —Adv.

PROPOSES PROBE OF U. S. AIR DEFENSES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—With the possibilities disclosed by the trans-Atlantic air odyssey of Lindbergh and others weighing heavily upon the minds of members of congress, Rep. W. Frank James, (R) of Michigan, ranking Republican of the house military affairs committee, today announced that he would propose a thorough investigation of the state of the nation's air defense.

The tremendous advance made in the field of aviation may demand a complete change in the nation's present policies, James asserted.

"My own view is that, in view of the flights over two oceans, we should seriously consider whether the five-year air program goes far enough," said James. "My personal impression is that it does not."

"I think the country ought to know what is being done with the five-year program and I shall recommend to our committee that it call Assistant Secretary of War, for air, Davidson, Major-General Patrick, chief of the army air service, and Brig-Gen. Fechet, who will succeed him, to learn what is being done now and what they think should be done in the future."

DOG LICENSE SALE STARTS ON MONDAY. Sale of 1928 dog and kennel licenses began at the office of County Auditor R. O. Wead Monday.

An increase of 50 per cent in the price of the tags was recently voted by County Commissioners to meet the requirements of the dog and kennel fund for next year.

Licenses for male dogs cost $1.50, for females, $4.50 and for kennels, $15.

Owners of dogs and kennels are required to purchase the new licenses by January 20, 1928. After that date owners will automatically go on the delinquent list, which provides a penalty of $1.

Auditor Wead expects that 3,400 licenses will be sold if tags are purchased by every owner of dogs and kennels in the county.

STOP THAT ITCHING

You won't have to wait—relief follows the first comforting touch of Resinol

There is no more necessary part of a modern automobile than a FULL GAS TANK. Things like seat covers, spotlights, theater tickets, bills of sale, insurance, dust, floor boards, nuts, corkscrews and lap robes can ALL be left at home but when an automobilist starts out with out GAS he's in for a great deal of peace and quiet so far as the CAR is concerned.

Having doped this out some years ago by careful and painstaking observation

If you put your car in storage during the winter why would you want to buy one of THESE? Answer: THAT. Women dress too scantily anyhow. In case you disagree with us, bring in the cash and the heater is yours—for KEEPS!

To the attention of the citizens of this entire county tha Refiners' Ehy! Gas is on tap here at all times of night and many times during the day!

I've seen many and many a Ford act like a Rolls Royce after getting boiled on this particular Gas. Rather a keen ad, eh?

JIMMY.

LITTLE THINGS AND BIG BUSINESS

The cheapest and one of the smallest commodities in the world—a match, is the basis of the world's most far-flung corporation.

The negotiations of the Swedish-International match group with Bolivia for the business of that country will give this organization either monopolies or factories in practically every country in the world. The combination has recently signed a contract with the Ecuadorian government for a 25-year monopoly there, acquired a monopoly in Poland and a partial one in France, and purchased a match factory in Manila.

The Swedish-International, which according to Barron's Financial Weekly, is the largest match organization in the world, has 90 plants in 35 countries and employs more than 60,000 employees. Among the countries which either make or have to strike "International Swedish" matches by virtue of a monopoly are: France, United States, Poland, Greece, Portugal, Philippine Islands, Algiers, Norway, Germany, Peru, Great Britain, the British Dominions, Japan, Jugoslavia, Sweden, Australia and India.

LARGER WORLDS AND IDEAS

Many as they look back to their early homes, are impressed by the narrow limitations of those scenes.

The family horse would take their owners a few miles to the next town, and then he stopped. Millions of people lived in a world bounded by their ability to walk, or the ability of their horses to travel. There were no movies, people rarely took railroad journeys. They had little conception of their country outside this narrow circle. This limitation produced contentment. People became satisfied with narrow conditions, and had little ambition.

Automobiles, the movies, the radio, more liberal traveling, these influences have broken down the boundaries of the old 0-mile world. People now roam all over the country. Sometimes they have less concentration, and will not stick to their job as well. But they are more intelligent, have fewer prejudices, and are quicker to take in new ideas.

SURPRISING FORD

How Ford was able to keep his plants partially idle for six months, spend millions of dollars in remodeling them and still lose less than a hundred and fifty million dollars is revealed by C. W. Barroff.

The veteran financial editor, who has recently been in Detroit, points out that Ford started six months ago with nearly three hundred and fifty millions cash to make his new car, and expected it might cost him two hundred millions.

"But," he continues, "the unexpected happened. The moment he discontinued the old car the imitation makers of parts vanished—like rats from a sinking ship. The demand for Ford parts rose to ten and twelve million dollars per month. This sounds large in the aggregate, but averages only $1 per car per month for the 10,000,000 Fords still on the highway."

This was a nice little return, and kept Ford's Highland Park plant, formerly assembling Model T cars, in partial manufacturing parts, and kept his bank account above two hundred million dollars.

The Way of the World

SENSE

Some time ago the newspapers printed the announcement of the marriage of the son of a rich Massachusetts family and an 18-year-old girl worker in a shoe factory. The young man is a graduate of Harvard. The girl's name was Tosia Szychovitz. Now this story is different from most stories of its kind. For the parents of the young man approved the match and welcomed the girl. The young man had personality and character. Here are two parents who exercised some foresight and common sense. They had the sense of discrimination which enables one to pick out the important from the unimportant.

DEALING WITH CRIME

Herbert Hadley, who used to be governor of Missouri and is now at the head of Washington university in St. Louis, says: "It is my opinion that our system of apprehending and prosecuting those who commit major crimes is only from 10 to 15 per cent efficient. We should all stop to consider how long organized society can continue to exist, depending as it does for the protection of life and property upon a system that is as much as 90 per cent inefficient."

There is no more glaring fault in the operation of our democracy than the chronic delay in the courts. There is no more pronounced cause of crime than the delay in dealing with criminals.

WAILS OR SINGS

A wise man by the name of Israel Newman once wrote these lines: "Truths are metallic strings Across the scheme of things; And Life—the wind that strikes and wails— Or sings."

We can not escape truth. We have, soon or late, to face the facts. But the way in which we deal with those facts—the manner of our adjustment to them—determines whether life, for us, wails or sings.

INDIANS

Don't be misinformed about the original and real Americans. We perhaps think of the Indian as a dying race. As a matter of fact Indian population increases. There are now in the United States about 350,000 Indians. They have not all been pushed west. There are more than six thousand in New York state. Oklahoma has the most—more than 120,000. Some are getting rich off their oil lands. They should not be envied or grudging their prosperity. The true 100 per cent Americans have had little enough out of their homeland.

CHOOSING AND CHANGING

An old proverb says to be slow in choosing, but he is equally slow in changing his choice.

The Daybook

OF A

New Yorker

By

Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—They tell this funny one on the grandeur of the mammoth Pennsylvania Hotel. The manager one day observed a large wreny looking family of six, file into the gargantuan lobby, all in hiking clothes. The father disposed the cooking utensils to good effect, took a hitch in his hiking trousers and sat down. The other members of the family, all in disheveled hiking kit, did likewise. At this point, the startled official thought it time to investigate. He approached the group and inquired: "Are you waiting for someone?" The father said no, just waiting for the train for Grand Rapids. And it was a rather relieved hotel man who hustled them on their way through the underground passage to the Pennsylvania Station across the street. They might still be marked on the hotel carpet if he hadn't asked that question.

The audiences at Max Reinhardt's presentation of "Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Century are large and varied. The German element is present, the butcher-baker-delicatessen-dealer, and their pleasure from the play and their seat mates are, like as not, the elect of the city, high-hatted and opera-cloaked, a trifle bored at the intricacies of the Reinhardt extravaganza, but determined not to miss anything bizarre or worth while. The Century theatre, by the way, is a place not to be visited without recalling the epithet hurled gently at it by James Whitaker, former New York dramatic critic. Whitaker called the Century "a mausoleum" and the Shuberts thereafter barred him from all their theatres, so affronted were they at the writer's railleury, innocently aimed.

The Waldorf Hotel is putting a quick lunch service in its Palm Room. You can get packages of patchwork pieces, all ready cut, at the five a dime. Most of the girls on Fifth Avenue, wearing leopard coats, look dangerously feline. The cop at Thirty-ninth street and Fifth Avenue is invariably in a pet. The Union League Club at Fifty-first street, across from St. Patrick's Cathedral, has its building moved again, impelled by the march of trade. The old boys are much upset about it. Time was when Fifty-first street was way up town.

Some good women have got to be decided that the one working girl can manage to dress well and even "look chic" on a yearly allowance of $250. The stocking budget includes only six pairs, a number at which my wife fairly sniffs. She does not believe, nor do I, that the girl who works can slide by and still have self respecting heels to show to the world, on such a sock allowance. There is no warm cloth dress mentioned in the budget, and since the girl has just an ordinary, in she must have such a frock in her wardrobe. Or freeze to death. I suppose that many of the brave smart little creatures dashing up and down the cross streets early in the morning do manage to keep their skirts together on such a skimpy allowance, but I wonder how they do it. The lady who compiled the figures also discovered that "less than half of these girls wear either cotton or wool stockings." And that one out of five had a fur coat, either a gift, or purchased on part-time payments. The long faced moralist might make something out of that "gift" explanation, but I am glad the poor little cuties get their fur coats, no matter how.

People in show business are saying, out of the corners of their mouths, that Lee Tracy, who plays the hooper in "Broadway" is now doing a tenth copy of his original version of the part. I saw Tracy play the other night for the second time, and I think he wise cracks are all wrong. The boy Tracy seems indeed to have been born in the role. So far as I am concerned, he is as satisfactory as the first night he put on his false fronted shirt and stepped into his hooper more actual than any other I've ever known on the other side of the footlights. "Burllesque," the other behind-the-scenes play now showing in the Times Square district seems to me only a feeble imitation, in atmosphere at least, of "Broadway." And while Hal Skelly is himself a hooper in reality, he is not nearly so convincing as M. Tracy, who impersonates the type.

KELLYGRAMS

by Fred C. Kelly

About Irish Dogs I have been looking every where for a glimpse of a real Irish terrier. But I never knew a place where these hard-coated, red dogs with the quizzical eyes are so scarce. An occasional Irishman knows where there is one, but usually he is from some other town, and he's hazy about the owner's name. Just for curiosity I'd like to go to the Shetland Islands and see if anybody there ever heard of a Shetland pony. I must start a search now for Irish steel. Wonder if they really have tailless Manx cats on the Isle of Man!

While Irish terriers are a scarce article, it is no trouble at all to find a Kerry blue terrier. The driver of a jaunty car had one seated behind him that he offered to sell me for $5. "When I get back home I'll probably wish I had snatched up this bargain. A Kerry blue has a mass of blue-black hair in front of his eyes and looks out

JUST WHAT HE DIDN'T WANT FOR CHRISTMAS

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MRS. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Implements of Beauty as Christmas Gifts

This may seem an odd title for a beauty article, but every woman must have implements with which to achieve beauty, just as the painter needs his tools. Although these implements are sometimes lacking in the decorative, luxurious value of the perfumes, cosmetics and other romantic beauty gifts which I have discussed this week, still they are exceedingly useful, and many of them may be obtained in attractive forms.

First in importance, I believe, are the brushes—all the way from the body brush to be used in the bath, down to the tiny eyelash brush with which to keep one's brows and lashes well groomed. Then there are the hair brushes and nail brushes—a wide array, indeed, among which to find a gift.

If you buy a hair brush, be sure that it has long bristles, even if you have to sacrifice a shiny silver back.

One of the most fascinating new implements of beauty is the "Masagette," a French reducing roller that has just made its debut into this country. It looks like a collection of dozens of little smooth balls, and one simply rolls it on the most parts to work away the superfluous flesh. It is attractive, too, and may be had in a variety of colors—red, amber, coral or white.

A very pretty, as well as practical aid to beauty, is the silk eye bandage to be worn at night, so the delicate organs can get complete relaxation. These eye bandages may be had in black, or even pink, and are much more becoming than the proverbial black silk stocking. In many cases, wearing such a bandage will save off the necessity of glasses from one to five years.

Blood Pressure

Mr. A.—The normal blood pressure varies around 30 points. Sometimes merely the excitement of having the pressure taken will make it jump up 30 points; therefore the first reading is usually not considered by the doctor. The normal pressure is also higher in the evening than in the morning; higher standing than while sitting or lying; higher after eating, after exercises and during emotional strains. It is lowest during sleep.

It is only when the pressure is constantly higher than normal, that it is known as high blood pressure. The main causes of high blood pressure are: psychic causes, overeating or overdrinking, over-and-under-exercising and overwork, chronic toxemias and obesity.

at you through this bush with a skeptical expression, as if he doesn't believe anything you say.

Crows or rooks are tame in nearly all Irish villages and towns about the street, about as pigeons often do in American cities.

I hailed an old man with a little horse and cart and asked to take his picture. After he had posed for me, along with a flock of Irish children, and was starting away, a little girl named Mary Rabb began to circle about me, exclaiming excitedly: "You didn't stand for the moon! Aren't you going to stand for the moon?"

This seemed a bit cryptic. Stand for the moon, hey? Well, where should I stand and how? Maybe the man desired to draw a picture of me to show what funny-looking folks Americans are. But it seems that to "stand for a man" is the Irish way of saying to stand for him, or in other words to treat the man a tip.

Being partly Scotch myself, the tip I gave him was a modest one, but he seemed immensely pleased. Everybody seems so appreciative of tips over here that possibly I'll fall into the habit of loosening up

Household Hints

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Bread dressing adds relish to many meat or fish dishes. The seasoning you use depends, of course, largely on the tastes of your family. Sage, onion, etc., are disliked by some, others think dressing has no savor without these seasonings. Enough salt and pepper to give it flavor are necessary. Half the success of any dish is in the seasoning, you know. Baked Halibut Steak with Dressing. Potato Chips Creamed Celery. Whole Wheat Rolls. Date Pudding with Foamy Sauce. Coffee.

Today's Recipes

Halibut Steak—Clean and scale halibut steak, one and one-half inches thick; salt well and put in a cool place till ready for use, then brush well with one and one-half teaspoon olive oil, sprinkle with teaspoon lemon juice, salt and pepper; then spread both sides of slices with one and one-half tablespoons melted butter. Put bread dressing on top of one-half of the steak, fold the other half over this and sew it up to hold in. Bake 45 minutes basting often with fat and five tablespoons hot water mixed.

For bread dressing, use two and one-half or three slices of stale bread, soak and squeeze dry, stir it into two tablespoons of fat in a frying pan until fat is absorbed, add salt, pepper and pinch of ginger, one small onion chopped fine, a tablespoon chopped parsley, level teaspoon baking powder and egg slightly beaten.

Date Pudding—One cup seeded dates, one cup sugar, one cup nuts, three tablespoons flour, one and one-half tablespoons baking powder, three eggs. Mix flour and baking powder, add to the chopped nuts and dates, add well beaten eggs and mix thoroughly. Pour into greased mold, place in a pan of water and bake 40 minutes.

Foamy Sauce—One-half cup butter, one cup powdered sugar, one egg, one teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, egg well beaten and vanilla. Beat while heating over hot water.

Chocolate Souffle

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)

Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, three-fourths cup milk, two squares chocolate, one-third cup sugar, three eggs, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Melt butter, add the flour, stir until smooth. Add the milk, stirring constantly, and when it boils add the melted chocolate, then the sugar. Add this mixture to the beaten yolks of the eggs, cool slightly and add the beaten whites. Flavor, pour into greased molds, set in a pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven until set—about 25 minutes.

A BARGAIN!

A vacationist, just returned, relates having overheard this bit of bucolic dickerings: "Hiram, when are you going to pay them $8 for pasturin' your heifer? I've had her now for about ten weeks."

"Why, Sam, the critter ain't worth more than $10."

"Well, s'posin' I keep her fer what you owe me?" "Not by a jugful! Tell you what I'll do, though—keep her two weeks more an' you kin have her."

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Why a senator should rank as about twice as big a frog as a representative, in the national capital puddle, isn't very readily apparent. He's no higher salaried a frog—$10,000 a year, same as a representative.

Yet, for some reason, as a tree toad is to a bullfrog, so also is a member of the lower house of congress, compared with a member of the upper one, here in Washington.

True, a representative's pretty important in his home burg, but let a senator show up even there, and the former croaks soft and low, so long as the visitor stays, while the latter honks his horn off, till you can hear him all over the state, and sometimes farther.

Once on a time, when a senator was elected by his own private legislature, whereas a representative had to scramble for common folks' votes, just like a candidate for town marshal, there was an obvious difference.

Now, though, a senator has to scramble as hard as a representative.

To be sure, a representative has to do it every two years, and a senator only once in every six.

However, when a senator does have to do it, he has an awful job on his hands. A representative's campaign in a tight little district, maybe only a few blocks square, like some of those in our bigger cities, isn't a circumstance to the statewide fight a senator has to put up.

Senators may have something on representatives in that there aren't so many of them—only 96, as against 435 representatives. But that rule doesn't apply in all cases.

In the 96th congress, we had with us Carl Hayden, Arizona's sole representative—the only one of his species—Arizona only has one.

In this, the 70th, congress, the best Carl can claim, as a senator, is a 50-50 split of the honors with Senator Henry F. Ashurst. He isn't as rare as a fox as he used to be.

Nevertheless, they speak of Carl's "promotion."

Note the strange case of William C. Vare. Vare'd been a representative for 15 years and had it cinched for 100, if he lived that long.

What advantage could he see in a senate seat?

He had his own representative's vote and could dictate a senator's—or kick him out of office—maybe two senators. The presidency itself could not have made him any more absolute boss of eastern Pennsylvania.

And yet he didn't balk at a $600,000 expenditure and all the scandal he's stirred up, to run for the senate.

What was his idea?

"Social prestige," is the only interpretation I'm able to get.

Well, what is there so much more exalted, socially, about a senator than there is about a representative? Even granting that the former's somewhat more consequential than the latter, is there such an awful lot of difference?

Yes, I'm told—because, when the president makes an appointment, the representatives have nothing to say, but the senators must approve it, to make it stick.

Some of these appointments are to posts of the very first importance—cabinet positions, seats on the supreme bench, big embassies.

Who gets one of them may depend, any time, on the vote of a single senator. It shouldn't be assumed that he's offered an invitation to dine with royalty in return for it, but it's a fact that there would not be any point in making such an offer, in a situation of the kind, to a mere representative.

her marrying, even though she was named in a divorce case. May third cousins marry? That is the gist of the next letter.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Last summer I visited cousins of ours and met one boy about my age and we fell in love with one another. My parents don't approve of it, as we are cousins. We are only third cousins, so please advise me as I love him dearly.

BLUE EYES."

Third cousins are counted as no relation at all, Blue Eyes.

One of our correspondents suggested forming a club for lonely young people.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I think it would be all right to have a club for young people, but what about middle-aged people? They are lonely too. I think it would be good to start a club for young and older people. I know hardly anybody in town and I am surely lonely.

BROWN EYED MARY."

There would not need to be an age limit in such a club, and it would be an excellent idea.

Peter's Adventures

A Cotton-Tail in Clover

"I like to sit up on my haunches," remarked Cotton-Tail, with a pleased air. "It smells so fresh and fragrant, and the breeze that ruffles the grass tops tickles the end of my nose." And Rabbit sniffed so hard that he sneezed. Peter giggled, but young Cotton-Tail paid no attention to the boy. He had just caught sight of something that gave him great pleasure.

"A new crop of clover, as sure as I'm a Cotton-Tail!" squeaked he. "What a surprise! What a treat! I've not been in this field for some time—that's why I didn't know it was here. It is some while since I've eaten, too. As a rule, it's not a long time between bites." Rabbit buttered his fat tummy and looked at the boy out of the corner of his eye.

"Do you mind if I take a bit of sweet refreshment, Two-Legs?" squeaked he, and although with eagerness to be at the pink and white blossoms, he was polite enough to wait until Peter answered.

"I mind? Not a bit," declared the boy. "Go to it, young Cotton-Tail. You may have my share. Those clovers do look good enough to eat, but I'm not in the habit of dining on grass!"

"Then you don't know what you miss!" declared the Rabbit, and waited no longer. Down upon all four legs he dropped and bounded over to the clover patch, and there, nose deep, he waded in the pink and white blossoms, nibbling away to his heart's content.

"M-m-m-m! How good this tastes!" murmured Cotton-Tail, his mouth full of clover. "I believe I could nibble the afternoon away. I have nothing happens to disturb me!" He stopped nibbling for a moment and looked up at Peter.

"But, then, nothing can. I made a detour and avoided those horrid Snakes-in-the-Grass, and then I stole in my tracks and sneaked upon them from the rear and heard them planning to leave the meadow for the Great Woods. The farmer's dog is asleep on the porch a little girl told me, White, the cat, is busy at the barn hunting for rats—the same little bird told me that, too. 'Tis too early for Fox or Skunk to be abroad, and 'tis not hunting season! And what other enemy have I? None that I can think of. No siree; I am safe for a while at least. I chose just the right time and laid my plans to well, to fear trouble right now." Cotton-Tail fell to nibbling again.

PERFECT BRIDGE HAND

CROCKETT, Calif., Dec. 9. — Santa Claus came to Crockett recently but was kicked out. Oscar Prytz was playing bridge with Jack Merchant and his wife. Mrs. Merchant was dealing Prytz left the room for a moment. When he returned he found thirteen hearts in his hand. "Aha," he said to himself, "a little joke." So Prytz passed and threw away the cards to turn the laugh on a host. Nothing was said. Prytz grabbed the discarded hand, displayed it and was assured it was perfectly legitimate. He was revived with difficulty.

Central Improves But Loses To Columbus Quintet

ONE POINT MARGIN SEPARATES XENIA FROM VICTORY SATURDAY

Locals Lost 11 To 10 In Game Featured By Tight Defense—Last Period Rally Nearly Wins For Coach Kolb's Pets

By PHIL FRAME

ALTHOUGH SHOWING amazing improvement over the preceding night and actually outplaying the visitors by a wide margin in the last half, Central High School basketball team were unequal to the task of overcoming the big lead compiled by Columbus Central High in the first two periods and lost their second straight game 11 to 10 Saturday night at the school gym.

Columbus, playing in a determined mood following its 29 to 6 defeat by Springfield on the evening previous, displayed a faultless passing game. The final score indicates the strict type of defense and sound passing game employed by both teams.

Columbus having a fast, rangy quintet, possessed an excellent defense and average offense.

As the contest started, it was easily four or five minutes before either team scored. Xenia tallied first, Morton making a free throw. Shortly afterward Paul sent Columbus into the lead with a basket.

Both teams were playing a conservative, errorless type of basketball and the opening period ended with the visitors leading 2 to 1. In the second period, Columbus cut loose to run up the score.

Captain Woodward hit the basket from mid-floor and Plank followed with a nice basket from a bad angle. Captain Woodward added a foul shot and then Morton shot Xenia's first field goal of the contest and the only one in the opening half.

Columbus led 9 to 3 at the half. In the second half there was a different story to tell. Both teams reverted to a tight defense in the third period, with the result a field goal by Captain Woodward and two free throws by Morton were the only markers of the quarter.

Fans will often talk of the last period of this game. Xenia, shooting desperately came within an ace of knocking the score and the visiting quintet, while being held scoreless in the fourth quarter, just managed to stave off defeat.

Scurry, subbing for Doak, shot a foul, reducing Columbus' lead to five points. Gibney sifted through a shot from mid-floor and from the crowd went into an uproar. The score was 11 to 8 and fifty seconds remained to be played. Higgins, subbing for Smittle, zipped in a long shot to give the partisan crowd hysterics, and then the final gun sounded with Xenia trailing by one, lone point.

Captain Woodward of Columbus was largely responsible for his team's victory, scoring seven points. Morton led the Xenia attack with four, followed by Gibney with three. The entire Xenia team showed marked improvement over the opening game. More accuracy is still needed in shooting but the defense leaves little to be desired.

Xenia played in championship form in the final half. Not a personal foul was called on a Xenia player in the last two quarters and the Blue and White outscored its opponents 7 to 2.

Xenia made four fouls out of nine chances while Columbus shot three free throws out of an equal number of opportunities.

Captain Clemans, playing his first game, gave a fine defensive exhibition under the handicap of an injured ankle and shoulder. Morton, Gibney, Doak, Smittle, Higgins, Scurry and Bell also gave excellent performances.

Xenia will meet Wilmington High on the latter's court Tuesday night.

JUNIOR HIGH TEAM BEATS GREENFIELD FIVE IN THRILLER

Youngsters In Good Form Against McClain Juniors

Shooting with newly-found accuracy and presenting a virtually impenetrable defense, Central Junior High School's basketball quintet defeated McClain Junior High of Greenfield 14 to 5 with a thrill from start to finish, preliminary to the Central-Columbus game Saturday night at the school gym.

The contest marked the first time in the history of the Greenfield school that its Junior High team has played away from its own floor.

Central Junior showed marked improvement both on offense and defense. The game was strictly a defensive battle with neither team obtaining many shots of the "sure" variety.

McClain attempted twenty-one shots during the game, twenty of which were from mid-floor, making two field goals. The local quintet tried twenty-three shots, making five baskets.

Captain King, Central Junior's running right guard, was the shining light with seven points. Allen topped McClain with three.

Coach Glen Patterson changed his lineup considerably following the one-point defeat by Leesburg the night before. Flory, diminutive forward, was started. Thompson jumped center, then shifted to his original back guard position. He put up a good defensive game.

Ringer followed up shots well. The Xenia team was well balanced and had an exceptionally tight defense.

Central Junior will meet Waynesville Junior High on the latter's floor next Friday night. Lineups and summary:

Xenia (11) McClain (5)
Ringer 1 f. Keplinger
Creamer 1 f. Allen
Thompson 1 c. Moosbarger
Flory 1 g. Little
King (c) 1 g. Allen
Field goals—King 3, Creamer 1.
Ringer 1, Allen 1, Keplinger 1.
Four goals—King 1, Allen 1.
Substitutions: McClain—Smittle for Keplinger. Referee, Fred Smith.

CEDARVILLE LOSES ONE-SIDED FRACAS TO "BEARCAT" FIVE

The highly-touted University of Cincinnati "Bearcats" defeated the somewhat over-rated Cedarville College "Yellow-Jackets" 71 to 19 in Cincinnati's opening basketball game of the season at the U. of C. gym Saturday night.

The Bearcats were out in front all the way and led 26 to 11 at the half. The second half was a rout. Cedarville experienced an off night. Cincinnati possessed a team of fast, rangy players and Coach Borst's boys were unable to cope with its passing and smooth floor work.

Captain Bolton, lanky center, was the individual star of the game, scoring twenty-three points for Cincinnati.

Jacobs, Cedarville center, registered seven points.

Cedarville hopes to give a better exhibition Friday night against Ohio Wesleyan University at Alfred gymnasium, Cedarville. The main contest will begin about 8:15 o'clock with a preliminary scheduled for 7:15.

ROAD BASKETBALL TEAM IS ORGANIZED

Organization of an independent basketball team in Xenia, backed by the Famous Auto Supply Co., W. Main St., to be known as the "Xenia Famous Five," is being announced.

J. W. Blackburn is manager of the team and uniforms have been ordered. It will be a road team and the management wishes to schedule games with any strong clubs.

Members of the team include a number of well-known Central High School stars of previous years—Robert and Raymond Gagner, Walter Leonard, Russell Vannorsdall, Oia Woolley, Fred "Bull" Deak" Smith, Robert Yeakley and others.

FINED ON CHARGE

Overruling a motion for a new trial, Probate Judge S. C. Wright imposed a fine of $200 and costs upon Oscar Hargrave Saturday. Hargrave was recently convicted of a charge of illegal sale of liquor. Judge Wright ordered execution of the fine held in abeyance, pending the filing of proceedings in error by defense counsel.

TOMBSTONE

Is Prize Given London, O., Golfer In Club Tourney

John N. Dinsmore and his "tombstone"

LONDON, O., Dec. 12.—Although John N. Dinsmore, of the London Exchange bank, is to have his name engraved upon a tombstone, he is anything but a "dead one," he is the golfer of the London Country club, and is a member of the club.

Few other golfers in this section have come anywhere near equaling his record with the clubs during the last few years, although he is one of the youngest members of the club.

For two years in succession, Dinsmore has won the annual "tombstone" tourney of the club, taking the event when he knocked his golf ball the farthest in a certain number of strokes, which makes up the "tombstone" event.

This year he drove the ball to the 18th tee, winning by a short distance from his younger brother, Fred Dinsmore. The older Dinsmore will have his name engraved on the real tombstone.

Dinsmore has a habit of winning golf tournaments. In his two years of playing he has won several honors. Last year he won the tombstone tourney and three other major tournaments of the club, while this year he won the Memorial Day event of the one-club tourney.

BOOZE EXPLODES AS FIREMEN FIGHT FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12.—Firemen here are discussing a new menace connected with the fire fighting business.

Recently they were called to the north side here to extinguish a blaze that had developed a large sedan. When the firemen began to throw chemicals on the car there was a series of short, sharp explosions. The firemen were kept busy dodging glass and corks.

When the fire was put out it was found that the car was "filled to the brim" with pint and half-pint bottles of whiskey, according to the report made to the police.

When police arrived on the scene, the owner of the car had disappeared. The car bore Indiana license plates. There was also a set of Michigan license tags in the car, according to authorities.

GET XMAS PHOTOS AT CANBY'S. A LIFE INCOME for your family. A supreme gift, a necessity. VEIN, L. F. DIST. MGR. THE MUTUAL LIFE INS. CO. OF NEW YORK, 9 W. Main St. Ph. 240.

When my friend, Bernard Vaughan, was visiting New York, some time ago, he was careful to leave his valuables in the safe at the hotel, when he accompanied me about the city at night. I asked why he did that. To avoid losing his funds in a holdup, he told me. It was very difficult for me to convince my friend that there is almost no danger of being held up in New York. I assured him, out of experience in both cities, that there is much more danger to a man with cash in his pockets in St. Paul, where Vaughan lives, than in New York. And St. Paul is a very orderly town, too.

The highway holdup, as it is known in other cities, is almost unknown in New York. The reasons for this are obvious, when you stop to think. Why should a professional bad man waste his time trying to get money from a casual pedestrian, at the risk of his life, when he can break a window in a jewelry store and walk away with more than a footpad's lifetime winnings?

Besides, the streets are generally too crowded to make holdup work comfortable. You can't very well put a gun at a man and search his pockets when you are being jostled hither and yon by an unfeeling sidewalk throng.

A man has to know his stuff thoroughly if he is going into the highway robbery business in Manhattan.

There was a very interesting instance of such work on Forty-first St., quite recently. The operator was a policeman. He picked four in the morning as the proper hour, since pedestrian traffic was at the minimum then. He gave his shield to a confederate.

The confederate stepped out in front of a man who was returning from a party with his wife. The confederate flashed his badge, and demanded to know whether the pedestrian was bound. The pedestrian also flashed a badge. They had picked a cop for their first victim! Quite unwittingly, for the cop was in civilian clothes.

In the case under observation the holdup failed. Partly because the victim was an Irish policeman, and showed fight, and partly because Manhattan streets are never quite deserted. The woman screamed, as the holdup policeman stepped up behind the victim and began slugging him. A crowd collected. The cop highwayman and his pal were also flashed a badge. The pedestrian cop, off duty, had grabbed his accoster around the legs and held him tight, even in unconsciousness.

But even an attempt at a pedestrian holdup is extremely rare in New York, and the few attempts that are made are usually unsuccessful. Even a cop may fail, at it, you see.

Joining the parade of Russian princesses, Park Avenue matrons, and English women of title, movie stars have gone "in trade" and are enjoying earning a little extra spending money. You'd be surprised at the stars who have side-lines that make them independent of the camera.

After starting work on the filming of "Rose-Marie" Renee Adoree was suddenly succeeded by Joan Crawford. Whether deliberate or accidental, there seems to be a lot of cruelty in the movies' politics.

UNCLE HORACE MADE A BIG MISTAKE WHEN HE RETIRED FROM BUSINESS—WHEN A BUSINESS MAN STARTS LOAFING HE NEVER LIVES VERY LONG—THAT'S A WELL KNOWN FACT.

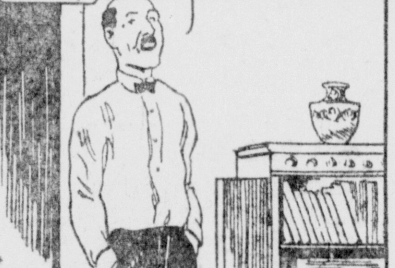

YES, BUT IT ISN'T THE LOAFING THAT KILLS HIM—IT'S THE STAYING AT HOME—WHEN A MAN QUITS WORKING HE'S GOT NO EXCUSE TO GO DOWN TOWN.

WHAT'S THAT?—YOU MEAN IT WRECKS HIS HEALTH TO STAY AT HOME ALL DAY WITH HIS WIFE AND FAMILY?

I'LL SAY IT DOES—GETTING AWAY FROM HIS WIFE'S CHATTER FOR EIGHT HOURS EVERY DAY IS ALL THAT KEEPS THE AVERAGE MAN ALIVE!

EARLY DISCOVERY OF TUBERCULOSIS SEAL SALE OBJECT

It used to be believed that in children the lymph glands, the bones and the joints were especially prone to infection with tuberculosis while the lungs were only rarely involved.

With more accurate study and the increasing use of the X-ray, this idea has been disproved. Dr. S. W. Schaefer in Hygiene, a popular health publication of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Schaefer presents the following conclusions following a study of tuberculosis children:

There is a relatively high percentage of pulmonary tuberculosis in children.

These children do well if the disease is discovered early and proper care is promptly given.

It is the responsibility of parents and educators as well as physicians to see that our children, who are just getting ready to live, shall be able to live their lives without the perpetual handicap of impaired health.

Discovery of early cases of tuberculosis and proper care of children predisposed to tuberculosis is the chief objective of the Greene County Health League for which funds are now being raised through the sale of Christmas Seals in Greene County. The dollars worth of seals which you purchase may help to save a child's life.

PERFECT Girl And Boy Tell How They Became Healthiest

Marie Antrim and J. Frederick Christman, chosen healthiest girl and boy.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Fresh air rather than cosmetics.

These are recommended by 15-year-old Marie Antrim, Kansas farm girl, to those who would be healthy.

She was voted the healthiest girl in the United States at a convention of Four-H clubs, composed of farm boys and girls and sponsored by the department of agriculture.

Three years ago, Marie decided she'd like to become the healthiest girl in the land. Realizing that the honor could be gained only by dint of persistence, she outlined a rigorous program for herself.

She went to bed at nine, and arose at 6:30. Then came setting up exercises and a hearty breakfast of cereal, fruit, bacon and eggs, potatoes, bread and butter and milk.

At noon and at night she ate vegetables, plenty of fruit, milk, and very little meat. She also drank a lot of water and milk.

Her posture prevented her from winning first award in one contest, so Marie resumed training. She practiced standing at arm's length from the wall with palms against it and bending forward and backwards, her chin touching the wall.

Result—first prize in this year's competition in which girls from forty-four states were entered.

J. Fred Christman, 18, of Blanchard, Ia., who was adjudged the most healthy boy followed much the same health rules as outlined by Miss Antrim.

Football and basketball helped to make him physically perfect, he asserts.

PROVES SMOKING NOT HARMFUL

VINCENT MADDI

By KEEN A. RAFFERTY
Staff Writer for Central Press and Gazette

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 12.—Vincent Maddi, M. Rosen and N. W. Bonelli had an argument about smoking.

New Maddi, Rosen and Bonelli are three medical students at the University of Maryland, and when they have a physiological argument they mean business.

So They Experiment

Maddi declared to Rosen and Bonelli that, after all, tobacco's harmful effects lie in abuse of its use. Rosen and Bonelli shook their heads and maintained that Maddi's four cigars a day would have a bad effect.

So they all took a day off, went up to Maddi's apartment with a box of perfectos, got out instruments and record blanks, and went at the matter with methodical daring.

Maddi began to smoke at 10 a. m. He smoked like Robert Fulton's steamboat. Smoke bombarded the ceiling of his apartment. It got behind the pictures on the wall and under the rug it permeated the wall paper. Worse, it kept coming. Maddi smoked until 6:05 p. m. He smoked thirty cigars, and, he maintains, he proved his point.

Outlines Effects

Carefully he outlines the results: An increase in blood pressure from 120-75 to 140-85 during the first six hours; increases in respiration from seventeen to thirty-six, the peak in the total eight hours; increase in pulse from eighty to 110 in the first five hours; and, progressively, increased salivation, burning sensation of tongue and mouth, small appetite, irritability, flushed face, quick breathing, muscular weakness, need of rest, a temperature, great excretion, muscular tremors, giddiness, clammy appearance, some heart irregularity, paleness.

Farm Notes

WANT LOWER RATES
Farmers of Ohio and neighboring states continued their fight for lower freight rates on fertilizer at an open hearing of more than four days duration before the Interstate Commerce and Ohio Public Utility Commissions in Columbus starting December 5. Reports of the hearing have just reached the office of the Greene County Farm Bureau.

The hearing was on a complaint originally filed by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation more than four years ago. Since the filing of the original complaint farm bureaus of neighboring states and a number of fertilizer manufacturers have joined in the protest.

Evidence submitted by the farm groups and manufacturers showed that rates on fertilizer in other sections of the country have for some time been lower than in this section. They also said that rates between certain points within Central Freight Association territory had recently been reduced. Those seeking lower rates believed that the fact that use of fertilizer increased crop yields and in turn provides additional traffic for carriers should be considered.

Carriers, opposing the requested reduction, introduced evidence to show that they were not receiving unfair returns on investment, and greater returns than other commodities carried.

It the complaint is granted by the commissions, a saving in freight rates of close to a dollar a ton will result.

BUREAU MEETING
Close to fifty Ohioans were numbered among the 600 farmers who gathered from forty states for the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Chicago last week, according to reports reaching the office of the Greene County Farm Bureau. National problems of farmers and of farm organizations were discussed at the three day meeting which started December 5.

L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, was re-elected to his position on the board of directors of the national organization. S. H. Thompson of Illinois was again chosen president and E. A. O'Neal of Alabama vice president.

The financial condition of the farmer's national organization was reported as stronger than at any time in its history. With farm bureaus now operating in thirty-eight states, officials of the organization recommended the strengthening of three state groups, and expansion into unorganized states.

Farmers from all sections of the country are decrying the present agricultural situation, returning Ohioans say. President Thompson, in his annual address urged a closer study of farm conditions and a better understanding of farmers' needs. He said farmers want no government price fixing nor direct nor indirect subsidy, but insisted on farm legislation which will require each marketed unit of a commodity to pay its share in the costs of its own stabilization and protection.

WARREN, O.—Breaking open a small size egg, which he found lying near a barn a Warren resident found it to contain a young and very much alive blacksnake. The man at first thought the reptile a rattler because in the vicinity were found, occasionally, rattlers and was considerably concerned when upon looking further he discovered in a nearby load of fertilizer more than a bushel basket full of eggs. A snake "expert" has informed him though that the infant wrigglers were black snakes. Oh, yes! the basketful of eggs was buried in a far away spot.

BASKETFUL OF WRIGGLERS

HALITOSIS? KILL IT!
Seven times in ten, Halitosis is due to a sour, gassy stomach, caused by intestinal stasis, or "Constipation." People with halitosis (unpleasant breath) are shunned, avoided, because they are like a "plague"—friends just can't endure being near such a person. Old and young, rich and poor, none escape if fermented food remains in the body, more than 24 hours. Even if the bowels move daily, there is often a remainder of foul, decaying matter, that can only be removed with a thorough cleaning, such as Black-burn's Casca-Royal Pills produce. This sweet little pill is "Better than Castor Oil."

Its action is pleasant and prompt. Stomach, liver, spleen and intestines all are benefited. The effect is so different from ordinary laxatives, salts, calomel, etc. A smooth, abundant action from the very first dose, soon rids you of all the disagreeable symptoms.

Let the whole family learn the value of Black-burn's Casca-Royal Pills. 45 pills, 50 cts. at drug stores.
